Billy Hulén Says:

Salem Produces
Fine Info Book
On Cage Quintet

It is fortunate for some teams that athletic contests are won and lost on the field of play instead of by public relations departments. If this latter were the case, Medford's Tigers would have absolutely no chance to upset the Salem high Vikings on the basketball maple here Friday and Saturday nights.

The capital city institution has really gone big-time this season as regards publicizing its undoubtedly very capable cage crew, runners-up for the state crown last year and state title-holders the two seasons previous.

Travis Cross of the Salem high athletic news bureau has edited an information booklet on the Vikings that can stand right alongside those issued by lots of colleges, and without blushing. It is really a fine piece of work, and to a sports writer it is like a most happy dream come true.

In this book we learn that Coach Harold Hawk, who starred on Willamette university cage teams from 1927 to 1930, is starting his sixth year as mentor of Salem basketball teams. During those five previous years his teams won 101 games while losing 48 for a percentage of .678, captured the state championship in 1939 and 1940 and the No-Name league pennant in 1938 and 1941.

The pamphlet devotes a goodly portion of its space to sketches of the current quint, which Coach Russ Acheson's Tigers are figuring on at least splitting even with—and maybe beating twice.

Dutch Simmons, five-foot-10-inch, 160-pound senior; Don (Red) Cutler, spring-legged six-foot-two-inch senior and Joe Bowersox, another senior standing five-foot-eight inches tall, are the returning lettermen at the forwards.

Courtney Jones, a lanky junior who stands six feet two inches and weighs 160 pounds, is Salem's leading center. He has had one year's experience on the junior varsity and boasts a fine pivot shot, according to the booklet.

Bud Coons, a six-footer weighing 175 pounds, is a two-year veteran guard. He's aggressive and a fine shot in the clutch. Teaming with Coons at the guard posts are Rex Hardy, five-foot-10-inch junior; Don Chapman, 5-foot 11-inch sophomore and Stan Prather, a five-foot-11-inch senior transfer.

Four of the probable five in the Salem starting lineup were football players last fall, so will have a certain amount of incentive to beat the Tigers. Coons was the Viking fullback, Simmons and Hardy were the "touchdown twin" halfbacks and Jones played end on the "B" eleven.

Al (Wray) Lightner, Crater leftfielder for the past two seasons, may be playing ball for Uncle Sam come next spring. . . . Al will take a physical examination shortly, as ordered by his draft board. . . . a razor blade concern, which sponsors fight broadcasts, is holding a contest for sports writers on the Louis-Buddy Baer scrap Friday. . . . the scribe guessing closest to the round and the exact time elapsed in which the thing ends will win 100 bucks. . . . we enter, and here is our guess: Louis, by a knockout in 2:33 of the second round. . . . All Slat's Gill of Oregon State will say concerning the northern division, Pacific Coast conference basketball race, is that: "It's going to be a tough league", and "they all look tough". . . . the Beavers are liked by many observers as the team to beat, although others are tabbing Washington's spectacularly fast and high-scoring Huskies. . . .

201 GOLFERS VIE IN $10,000 OPEN

Los Angeles, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The five day process of selecting a champion of the $10,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament among 201 professionals and amateurs began on four courses today.

Thirty-five of the big name boys were exempt from qualifying but 166 others, 94 pros and 72 amateurs, vied through 36 holes for the other 93 spots in the field of 128. The 72-hole event starts Friday morning.

Johnny Bulla of Chicago carried off $3500 top money last year from a field which included Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Sammy Snead, the big three of 1941; Craig Wood, current U. S. open champ, and Vic Ghezzi, national P.G.A. titleholder. These and 29 others can rest today.

DOUBLE OFFSIDE, 'SLEEPER PLAYS' DRAW CENSORSHIP

Syracuse 'Y-Formation'
Made Illegal—Clarifications For Several Points.

By Robert Myers
Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 7.—(AP)—The 1942 college football rule-book remains almost exactly as it was last season, but the governing rules committee clarified a few points and wrote two stern frowns into the text on a couple of practices.

One raised eyebrow was directed at officials taking the easy way out in calling both teams off-side and, while the crowd yawned, making them replay the maneuver.

Advisory coaches sitting in at the rules meeting at the Camelback Inn before adjournment yesterday joined with Chairman Walter Oakes in condemning the practice. Usually, they said, it is apparent that one or the other eleven is off-side and there is a rule that says when one player draws another off-side, number one's team should get five yards backward.

15-Yard Penalty
"We want to eliminate this double off-side matter," said Oakes.

The hideout, or sleeper play, where it is screened by substitutions, was also frowned upon and a 15-yard penalty attached for future reference. This type of play comes when a coach sends in, say, five players. In the confusion, six players start off the field—only one stops at the sideline and takes refuge in the cluster of chain-handlers, the headliners and possibly eight photographers.

The sleeper play with the wide flanker is all right—but not under this kind of wrap. West coast observers will remember that Babe Hollingbery of Washington State thought he detected this in one game, yelled to high heaven and the "sleeper" was awakened.

Gone, too, under the 1942 supplemental rules, is the reversed-center, which gained prominence last season on Ossie Solem's Syracuse team. It was described as the "Y-formation."

Alonso Stagg sounded the keynote of its death knell when he commented:

"Football is a combat game, and should not be played by players turning their backs to their opponents."

Must Face Foo
The new rule clarifications says that a player, to be legally on the line of scrimmage, must face his opponents' end line, and his feet must be behind the ball.

Another supplemental note provides that in the last two minutes of a half a referee may start or stop the clock if, in his opinion, one team or the other is intentionally trying to delay a game by sending in substitutes.

It also more sharply defined the last two-minute sub rule to prescribe that when the referee has finally and definitely put the ball in place ready for play, no sub can be sent in without bringing a five-yard penalty along with him.

Date Is Changed for Banquet for Beavers
Corvallis, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Oregon State's Rose Bowl football squad will be welcomed in a day-long celebration Thursday, but the banquet scheduled for that night has been postponed.

It was tentatively rescheduled for January 16, when Coach Lon Stiner and several players who are visiting relatives are expected to return to the campus.

FELLER GOES TO WORK FOR NAVY

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Baseball's Bob Feller started work for Uncle Sam today.

The American league pitcher, who has been with the Cleveland club since 1936, checked in at the naval training station last night to assume his duties as chief boatswain's mate under the navy's physical fitness program.

Feller enlisted in the navy at the annual major league baseball convention in Chicago last month. He will go through the training school at the base before helping train navy recruits.

TREASURE ISLAND NEEDED BY NAVY

San Francisco, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Navy Secretary Knox "urgently suggests" that Treasure Island, mid-bay site of the 1939-40 Golden Gate International Exposition, be handed over to the navy department, permanently and completely, with all possible speed.

He telegraphed San Francisco's Mayor Angelo Rossi yesterday asking that an enabling act be introduced during the coming session of the state legislature, opening January 12, and that negotiations between the city and county of San Francisco and the 12th naval district start immediately.

NO INFORMATION ABOUT NAVY MEN

San Francisco, Jan. 7.—(AP)—To relatives and friends, anxious as to the whereabouts of naval officers and enlisted men, the navy had this to say today:

Information regarding duties and stations on men in naval service must, for vital reasons of security, be denied to all inquirers.

But a relative or guardian of a man in the service may learn from the chief of the bureau of navigation, after establishing identity, the name of the ship to which the man is attached.

Under no circumstances, however, will the navy disclose information regarding where ships are operating.

SPORTSMENS CLUB HOLDS IMPORTANT MEETING TONIGHT

Sportsmen of the Rogue River valley are urged to attend the meeting of the Rogue River Sportsmen's club tonight at 7:30 in the chamber of commerce building.

At this meeting the club will decide on the annual recommendations which should be made to the state game commission for 1942. The commission meets on January 10 and it is important that the local recommendations be sent in, according to Kenneth G. Denman, club president.

The proposed government dam at Debinger Gap on Rogue river will also be discussed and the club's policy determined. Many sportsmen have expressed concern that this dam will ultimately destroy the runs of salmon, steelhead, and other migratory fish in the Rogue river. The proposal is to build a dam which would be about 150 feet high. This would back the water up above Trail, Ore., and destroy approximately 15 miles of spawning beds. The stand of the local sportsmen and all allied interests should be made known on this proposal.

Another matter to be presented will be the present regulation of the state game commission prohibiting the hunting of bear with dogs. Considerable interest has been shown in this matter by the stockmen in the surrounding territory and all those interested are urged to be present. Many fear that the present protection given to bear will cause them to increase and become a great source of damage to stock.

Other matters of vital interest to fishers and sportsmen will be presented and everyone is urged to be present on time.

Friday evening Grange held first meeting of the new year with recently installed officers presiding.

Grange voted on seven applicants. Three were obligated in first and second degrees.

Our new lecturer, Mrs. I. Luman, gave an interesting program. Of special interest was the educational paper on the making of wool from milk concentrates.

After a social hour Mr. and Mrs. Don Elliott, Sr. and Jr. served refreshments.

The 1942 Grange officers met at the home of Eugene Nowlin, Monday evening to name new committees so they can be read at the Jan. 16 meeting.

We are looking forward to 1942 being our best and biggest year in Grange work and accomplishments.

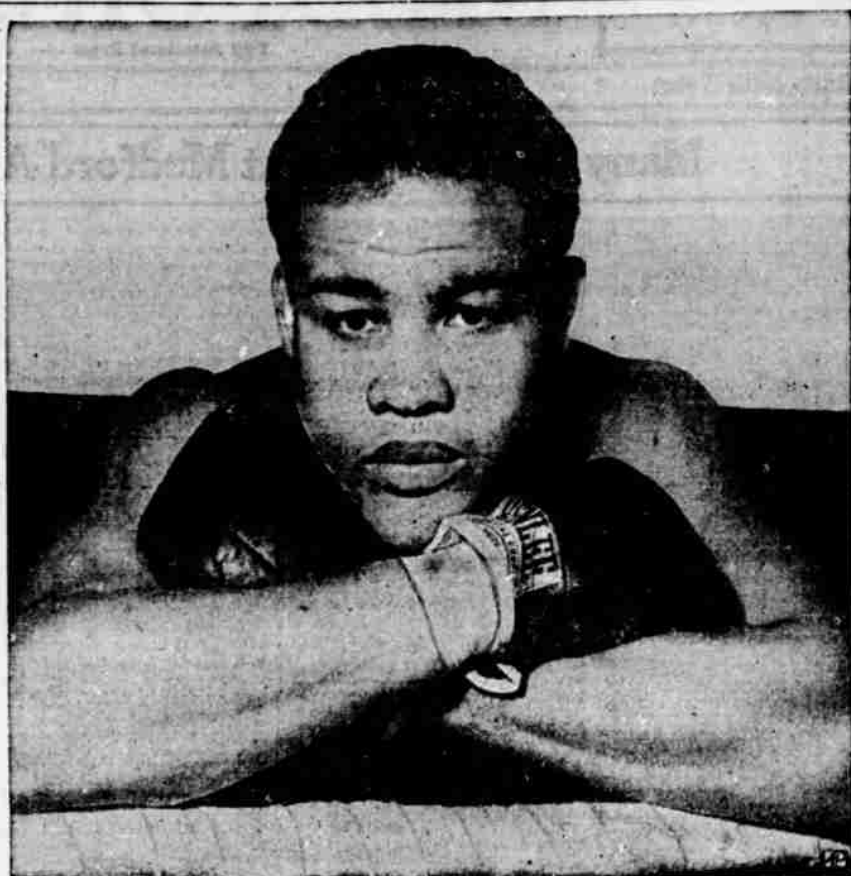

H. E. club is reminded that January 14 they are to meet at the hall at 1:30 p. m. for their first meeting. There is also work to be done in getting the hall in readiness as an emergency center in time of need.

Kansas City, Mo.—(UP)—Frieda Coleman, who enlisted in the marines in 1918 and worked in the Kansas City marine recruiting office for 10 months, is ready to return to service. Miss Coleman, now a life insurance company stenographer, recalled that the other marines dubbed her a martinet and classed her as a corporal.

Jack Dempsey Wants A Crack At Germans; Barred By Age

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A 46-year-old man who once licked eight Germans in three minutes with one awfully tough fist walked into the army recruiting station today and volunteered as a buck private. His name is Jack Dempsey.

The biggest drawing card in the history of the boxing ring weighed in at 210 pounds as an indifferent doctor tapped the chest that a lot of bigger men never reached.

"But I've got to tell you about those Germans first," he said. "It was in the summer of 1925—I was still champ—when I was on a barnstorming tour and landed in Berlin."

"I offered $1,000 to anyone who could stay three rounds with me. But the Heinies ganged up on me. First they sent in three, and finally two more, trying to wear me down. I knocked 'em all down in three minutes."

The former world's heavyweight champion expanded his chest to punctuate the point.

"Been thinkin' about joining since Pearl harbor," he said. "soon as the waiver on my age comes through, they say they'll take me. I don't want a rank. I'll do whatever they tell me to—shoulder a gun, anything I'd like a crack at the Germans."

But the army didn't take him. Although Dempsey passed his physical examination, Col. John F. Daye, in charge of recruiting in the southern New York area, said that since Dempsey was 46 he could not be enlisted "unless and until congress passes a law raising the age limit from 35 years."

Dempsey had expressed enthusiasm about joining up, during his examination.

He said he had an athletic program mapped out which he would submit to the army and if it was accepted he would help plan a novel sports program to keep army men fit.

"My wife (the former actress Hannah Williams) and the two kids think it's a good thing," Dempsey continued. "I'm joining the army because I understand it better. I didn't fight in the last war, but I was raised

Wool Conservation Expected to Hurt

Portland, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Oregon and Washington millers predicted today a wool conservation order restricting the manufacture of woolen garments by 20 percent for the first quarter of 1942 would cause considerable unemployment in the industry.

They said that the order would virtually curtail civilian production in some mills in favor of army-navy production. Mills which do not hold such contracts face unemployment.

MAGNESIUM BOOM

Las Vegas, Nev.—(UP)—Las Vegas is booming again today with the wartime demand for magnesium. Almost 1,000 trailer homes have been moved here. The town's population has doubled to around 10,000. Construction of a $63,000,000 magnesium plant 12 miles from here is said to be the largest in the world.
