DRIVE FOR BOND BUYING PLEDGES OPENS TOMORROW

Campaign Will Last Week —'Minute Men' Will Visit Every County Home.

About 1,000 workers, known as "minute men," will take to the field tomorrow to visit every home in Jackson county in the national defense savings stamp and bond campaign.

Every person having a regular income will be asked to sign a pledge to buy a certain amount of savings stamps or bonds each week or month. The pledge is entirely voluntary, no selling pressure will be exerted and each person will be asked to sign up for only what he feels he can continue regularly for duration of the emergency.

Notation will be made on each pledge card if bonds and stamps are already being purchased regularly through the payroll allotment plan or newspaper carriers.

The campaign will last a week. It is a test campaign in Oregon that the treasury department is watching with interest and so the state committee is anxious to keep Oregon as a model of patriotism.

"This is a patriotic endeavor in which we are all striving for the same end—victory for democracy," said Moore Hamilton, chairman of the pledge campaign. "One way we all can help is to invest in savings stamps and bonds to help pay the cost of war and at the same time practice thrift and establish an interest-bearing nestegg that will come in mighty useful after the war.

"It should be borne in mind that this pledge campaign is entirely voluntary and that the canvassers are merely trying to help in the defense effort. For that reason we feel certain that every family called upon will give the canvassers a cordial welcome and an opportunity to explain the pledge system. We ask the sympathetic cooperation of everyone."

Mr. Hamilton pointed out that the pledge books are the property of the U. S. treasury department and their contents are confidential, canvassers being instructed explicitly not to show them to anyone but authorized persons.

SUSPENDED TERM GRANTED IDAHOAN, AND EVERETT BOY

Robert E. Wilson, 54, Florence, Idaho, was released from the county jail today after Judge H. K. Hanna in circuit court suspended sentence for six months on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses.

Wilson, in jail since October, was accused of passing a worthless $24 check at the Kelly grocery, Rogue River. He at first pleaded innocent and was indicted by the grand jury. This morning he changed his plea to guilty.

Harley Goodrich, 16, Everett, Wash., held in the county jail since early December for the alleged burglary of the Domestic Laundry and a number of Medford service stations, was turned over to his parents in justice of the peace court this morning for return to a correctional school at Everett. A large boy, Goodrich was believed by the authorities to be older than he is, it was explained. It was brought out in court that he had walked away from the correction school, where no imprisonment is attempted, and his parents did not know where he had gone until they got word recently. His parents came here for him yesterday.

Wall St. Report

New York, Jan. 19. — (AP) — Rails, steels and assorted industrials turned on a little recovery heat in today's stock market but many leaders continued to suffer from light selling chills.

Transfers approximated 400,000 shares, which was among the slackest turnovers for a full session since last fal.

Fears for the fate of Singapore and the Philippines, in addition to nervousness over growing enemy submarine attacks on the Atlantic seaboard, served to restrain bullish forces, brokers said.

Officer Stoehr is a 1929 graduate of Medford high school and was a member of the Black Tornado football teams during the Prink Callison regime. He later attended the University of Oregon where he received his R.O.T.C. training.

WILLKIE REFUSES UMPIRE POST SO HE CAN CRITICISE

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Friends of Wendell L. Willkie said today the 1941 Republican presidential nominee apparently had decided to decline official position with the government because he wished to preserve his private capacity as a citizen and be free to utter constructive criticism of the administration's war effort.

Willkie already has rejected an offer of appointment as one of a panel of arbiters to aid the new war labor board in its efforts to settle industrial disputes.

President Roosevelt disclosed plans last week for the formation of such a panel, mentioning James A. Farley, Alfred E. Smith and Charles Evans Hughes, the retired chief justice, as possible members.

Willkie also was counted upon to become one of this group, but left a conference with the president last week without committing himself. He since notified Mr. Roosevelt that he did not desire to serve in such capacity.

Willkie was reported to have been influenced in his decision by the possibility that if he became directly associated with the government, he would not be at liberty to speak his mind about things that might go wrong in the war production effort.
