Melvina Yocum Honored at Roxy Ann Grange Hall on 80th Birthday

By Alice Daws

Melvina Elizabeth Yocum, beloved Oregon pioneer, was honored at the Roxy Ann Grange hall on Spring street by 43 relatives and friends, January 18, having attained the age of 80 years.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon a huge birthday cake inscribed "Happy Birthday, Mother and Grandmother, 80th Anniversary," and decorated with pink rosebuds, was served with other refreshments by Mrs. P. R. Yocum, assisted by Jeanne M. Yocum.

Mrs. Yocum was seated at the head of the table. To her right was her youngest daughter, Mrs. Oval McClanahan, and at her left her youngest son, P. R. Yocum. At the other end of the table her oldest son, T. J. Yocum was seated, with Mrs. W. F. Pahl and R. M. Yocum, her other daughter and son present seated at his right and left respectively. Other relatives and friends were seated on each side of the long table.

Melvina Elizabeth Yocum was born in McMinnville, Yamhill county, Ore., January 4, 1862, where she lived until her marriage to Robert F. Yocum, January 10, 1878. For their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Yocum took a boat from Portland to San Francisco and an immigrant train from there to Springfield, Ill.

Starting the return trip to Oregon on April 6 of the same year, the young couple overlooked six other wagons and traveled with them, encountering many hardships. Near Boise, Idaho, the brave little group were forced to remain on watch one entire night. In the Blue mountains of Oregon, the caravan found the bodies of two freighters killed by Indians a short time before. Brush was thrown over their bodies, one horse killed, others driven off and wool and lard, with which the wagons had been loaded, scattered about.

Reaching the Willamette valley, the pioneer couple came to southern Oregon. Mrs. Yocum has spent the past few years in and near Medford as six of her eight living children reside here. One son, G. S. Yocum, lives in the Willamette valley and a daughter, Mrs. C. E. Stouder at Kimberly, Ore.

Always leading an active life, Mrs. Yocum has devoted much of her time since the death of her husband to piecing quilts and other sewing. She estimates that in the last 17 years she has made about 52 quilts. Since her 80th birthday she has learned to embroider and has started making a set of pillow cases for each of her children and grandchildren with both embroidery and crocheting on them. She has completed four sets.

Relatives and friends gathering to honor her included Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Yocum, Mrs. Oval McClanahan and children Sandra, Dale, Ann, Richard, Kay and Nadene; Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Yocum and daughters Barbara and Laverne; Mrs. W. F. Pahl, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Yocum, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Davis, Mrs. George Fry and daughter Betty, Jeanne M. Yocum, Mrs. K. J. Denman, Mrs. Ed Neff, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hedgpeth, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Lewman, Mrs. Joe McIntyre and children Dorna, Wilma, Phyllis and Maurice; Mrs. E. Sutton, Mrs. L. T. Bish, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Mrs. N. T. Hodges discussed the country, which the speaker said, was a land of contrasts. In spite of all the trouble United States and Mexico have experienced, relations with the southern neighbor have improved since the 1920's as each country has discovered its need for the other's friendship.

An agreement was signed, and while it does not settle the four-year-old controversy is considered to be an important step toward peace and has brought about a better feeling between the United States and Mexico and other Latin American countries. Mrs. Hodges reported.

An interesting discussion followed during which time members told of their experiences while traveling through Mexico.

Mrs. Mentzer, Mrs. Smith On Club Program

Thursday Morning Study club members at the Girls Community clubhouse heard Mrs. Leland Mentzer review "Hex Marks the Spot" by Ann Hark. Written by a newspaper woman the book gives an interesting history of the Pennsylvania Dutch colonists who came to America in the early days upon the invitation of William Penn.

As the author points out, the Dutch have not mingled with other races coming to this country and as a result their customs, religion, art and daily life has remained almost constant to the pattern laid out in the old country.

Particularly interesting are their festivals and their art which is formed on the most part about the symbol, hex. Although the author tried throughout her entire book to discover the meaning of this Dutch symbol she closed the last chapter with the mystery still unsolved.

Mrs. Justin Smith, talking on the timely subject of "Pan Americanism" told of the history and liberative movement started in the early 1800's by Simon Bolivar, South American liberator from dictatorship. An interesting account of Argentina pointed out how necessary it was for this country to join the other neighboring countries in western hemisphere pact.

Imports from South America and our needs from that country were also discussed by Mrs. Smith and the fact that the countries have as a whole practically adopted the Monroe Doctrine was pointed out as important feature in a good neighbor policy.
