BATAN DEFENDERS BEAT OFF FRESH JAP ONSLAUGHTS

ed barges, some burning, others adrift, were found along the coast. High-reaching flames, destruction and some casualties were reported in Singapore as Japanese bombers pounded the city with its 750,000 population and outlying sections.

Singapore's big defense guns, ranged along the mile-wide Johore strait, thundered intermittently above the scream of air raid sirens at Japanese troops in the jungles on the opposite shore of the Malay peninsula. RAF scouting planes reported a heavy movement of Japanese troops southward, indicating that the invaders were massing in full strength on the lower tip of the peninsula before launching a direct assault on the $400,000,000 island fortress.

With American flying fortress bombers now helping in the defense of Singapore, smashing at Japanese airfields on the Malay peninsula, the atmosphere in the beleaguered island citadel was far from pessimistic.

Strike at Java

Japanese warplanes struck for the first time at Java, heart of the Dutch East Indies, raiding the big Soerabaja naval base. Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell's supreme united nations command in the far Pacific.

Besides attacking Soerabaja, the Indies' chief naval base, a formation of 26 Japanese bombers, strongly escorted by fighters, also pounded towns in eastern Java in what may have been the prelude to an invasion drive. A communiqué reported "considerable damage" and casualties.

Meanwhile, General Wavell's headquarters announced heavy new blows inflicted on the battered Japanese invasion armada in Macassar strait, between Dutch East Borneo and Celebes island. United States warplanes twice attacked the enemy convoy yesterday off Balikpapan, Gen. Wavell's command reported, sinking two transports and probably another. Combined Dutch and United States air and naval attacks are now credited with sinking a total of 46 ships in the shark-infested Macassar strait.
