Moore-Field Wedding Read In Church Rites

Friends throughout the valley will be interested to learn of the marriage last Sunday in Vancouver, Wash., at the First Presbyterian church, of Miss Constance Lindsay Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rawley Moore of the Old Stage road and Harvey D. Field, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Field of Crater Lake avenue.

The ceremony was read by the Rev. John W. Pressly, Jr., in the presence of immediate friends of the couple. For her wedding outfit the bride chose a pastel wool suit with gray fur trim and a corsage of orchids. She was attended by Mrs. William Barnum, the former Amy Elliott, who wore a tailored outfit and a corsage of Talisman rosebuds. Dr. William Barnum was best man.

A breakfast at the country club followed and that evening Dr. and Mrs. Barnum entertained for the couple at their home in Portland.

Mr. Field is a graduate of Medford high school and attended Sacramento Junior college and Oregon State college. He is employed with the George Lawrence Leather company in Portland where the couple will make their home. Mrs. Field graduated from Medford high school and attended San Mateo Junior college and the College of Pacific where she majored in music. Both are well-known in southern Oregon music circles.

Following a week's trip to coast points they planned to be at home in Portland tomorrow. Preceding her departure for Vancouver last week a group of friends gathered at the Moore home and honored her with a kitchen shower.
