COMMUNITY CLUB OVERWHELMED BY LODGINGS OFFERS

The appeal for "rooms for single girls," printed on the front page of Friday's Mail Tribune, met with such immediate and overwhelming response that the Girls' Community club has been swamped ever since with offers of aid from all parts of the city.

The paper had hardly gotten off the press before the phone calls started and they kept up until late at night, as many as 30 being received in the first hour.

Not only were the offers from those who have rooms to rent, but from residents who don't care to be listed, but would be glad to provide accommodations for single girls looking for work, at no charge and until work could be secured.

One well known citizen stopped at the club en route to the S. P. station where he was to accompany his wife to Portland for a major operation, offering his entire house to such applicants, during his absence, under the supervision and control of the organization.

The response was so generous and wholehearted in fact that Mrs. Dolph Phipps, president of the board of directors of the Community club, who made the appeal, yesterday issued a public statement, thanking the people of the city for their splendid cooperation and the high quality of patriotism shown.

She declared it was not only extremely gratifying to the Community club, but was only added evidence that Medford is in the very front rank of war-minded and public spirited communities in the state.

PORTLAND FACING NEW MILK BOOST

Portland, March 21.—(AP)—Spokesmen for Portland milk producers disclosed today their intention of asking the milk control board for a price increase sometime next month.

The boost is necessary they said to meet emergency demands and to halt a decrease in production.

Producers want an increase in butterfat price from 80 cents to $1 per pound. It would mean an advance of two cents a quart in milk price, one producer estimated, but said the lift might be held to one cent a quart if the distributors' spread is narrowed and certain economies effected.

Commenting on the proposed boost, C. E. Grelle, chairman of the board, said: "The situation . . . is getting critical. There is an increased demand and a tendency toward a stoppage of production. However, we can't hold a hearing on the Portland price until the Corvallis army cantonment problem is out of the way."

The board is to hold a hearing in Corvallis Monday.
