HE worked for US...now WE'RE working for HIM

HE has helped five Standard presidents get light on their problems. He has worked in the office of countless other Standard executives. For thirty years he has been a fixture of this company's home office in San Francisco. Pete, he is called—the window-washer.

The other day Pete said his goodbyes. Whether for a director, a science-shark, or a messenger—and he knew them all—his handshake carried dignity. And why not? He has acquired a home, a garden, a car, and the time to go fishing. He has educated two daughters. He has done a good job—two, in fact—one for us and one for himself.

His departure seems a natural occasion to mention the part Standard has played in helping Pete to do these things—through fair pay, fair treatment, retirement annuity, and all that. But we'd rather say "Thanks" to Pete for his services to us. You see, we're in a position particularly to appreciate them.

Our business is furnishing products which will make a complicated gadget known as an automobile run smoothly—no knocks, no squeaks, no rattles. The Petes who do a thousand routine jobs with painstaking care—hallmark of everything Standard—perform the same service for our complex organization... So long, Pete, we'll be missing you.

UNIONS REAPING BIG HARVEST IS CLAIM OF SOLON

Kansas Senator Estimates $216,000 Netted On One Ordnance Building Project

Washington, March 31.—(AP)—Senator Reed (R., Kan.) told the senate today that workers on war and defense projects had been forced to pay "at least $30,000,000" in fees to labor unions.

The Kansas Republican senator said his estimate was based upon personal investigations of union charges on a defense project near his home city of Parsons, Kas., as he urged congressional approval of his bill which would make it illegal to require union membership for a job on any project financed with federal funds.

Reed urged a senate judiciary subcommittee to make a complete investigation of what he termed "scandals" and "racketeering elements" in unions on various defense projects under the army engineer corps.

Pay $2 Month Dues

The senator said that on the ordnance project near his home city that common laborers had been forced to pay a $12 initiation fee and $2 monthly dues to a local of the International Hod Carriers union of the American Federation of Labor.

Reed told the senate that this single project netted unions about $216,000 in fees of various kinds "based on my personal investigation." He said a similar computation on all projects under the army engineer corps indicated that a widespread "closed shop" program for AFL construction trade unions had cost workers $30,370,903.

German Women Fired On by Storm Troops When Food Demanded

"In Hamburg and other towns, workers protested collectively against the reductions. Spontaneous women's demonstrations gathered in front of Nazi party headquarters."

"They demanded bread for their children. Shouts resounded through the crowd: 'Put an end to this accursed war!'"

"Police were unable to disperse the crowds. Storm troops opened fire on the women and the demonstrations were scattered."
