LIST LOCAL MAN IN NAVY MISSING

The recent naval battle off Java is believed to have taken the life of Steve West, a Medford youth who was serving as a torpedoman on the U. S. Destroyer Edsel.

Steve's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Barshaw of 531 Marie street, received official notice from the navy department this week that the Edsel had been missing since the battle and was presumed to be lost with all its crew.

Steve received all his schooling in Medford and was especially well-known by members of the Rogue Valley Golf club, where he caddied for several years in the late 1920's and early 1930's. After serving one hitch in the navy several years ago he enlisted for another term shortly before the outbreak of war.

Besides his mother he is survived by a brother LeRoy West, former local resident now employed in San Rafael, Calif., who is at present visiting relatives and friends in Ashland and Medford.

MEET THE WEST'S BEET SUGAR GROWER

* This year he will produce about one and three-quarter million tons of sugar—one-fourth of all America's sugar

* Since World War I he has increased his production over 100%. In the present war emergency he is growing more sugar beets than ever before

* He has cultivated $16,000 western acres with a system of crop rotation and fertilization which is highly beneficial to the soil

* With the by-products of his industry—beet tops, beet pulp, molasses—he fattens yearly millions of head of cattle. (In the growing and processing of sugar beets there are no wastes!)

THE WEST'S BEET SUGAR GROWER is a key man in this war. Without him any U. S. sugar ration might be less per person weekly than the amount now planned.

In fact, this sugar he grows inside America permits us to take almost in stride the present loss of Philippine sugar—the smaller shipments from other areas.

It permits us to spare sugar for our war allies—and to make a million tons of sugar into smokeless powder—while still giving our civilian population a fairly liberal ration.

And present beet sugar production is only the beginning. Western growers will harvest a record crop of sugar beets this fall. Each year "for the duration" production should increase.

The important thing now is to do your part to make the sugar ration work. Remember, sugar may be needed to manufacture smokeless powder!

But remember, too, that we in America will always have sugar. We will always have the good beet sugar of the West. The sugar that, come war or peace, flows freely from U. S. beet fields to U.S. sugar bowls.
