BODY MECHANICS

Proper body mechanics is one of the first essentials to normal health. It follows that the first consideration in the preservation of health is the maintaining of the bodily tissues in their proper mechanical relations. By this it is not meant to infer that life is a mechanical process. However, the life force cannot normally manifest itself in a human body whose parts are in an abnormal mechanical relation. We all know that an auto does not function normally with its parts in disrelation. Then, certainly, we should not expect the human body to function to its best advantage while its parts and tissues are in a state of abnormal relationship. Your body is a sensitive mechanical organism. Keep it in repair. See that its parts operate smoothly and easily. Have its abnormalities corrected. Do this before irreparable damage results.

Los Angeles Workers Slagger Arrival to Ease Transportation

Los Angeles, April 20—(AP)—This fifth largest city, sprawling over 450 square miles and handicapped by inadequate transportation facilities, adopted the staggered work hours system today.

Thousands of workers got up 15 minutes to one hour earlier or later so as to reduce peak or traffic loads. City and county employees reported for work at 7:30 and 7:45 a.m. and were to quit at 4 and 4:15 o'clock. Downtown stores opened an hour later.

The staggered hours system is the outgrowth of the rubber shortage. The shortage has thrown heavy burdens on public transportation systems.

New York, April 20—(AP)—John Q. Whitecollar came to work 30 minutes late today, but the office manager merely smiled a good morning.

Yes, it can and did happen here—not only Mr. Whitecollar, but also some 150,000 other men and women office workers checked in either a little early or a little late as the city began its wartime "stagger-system" of working hours in order to relieve subway congestion.

ANTI-INFLATION MESSAGE COMING WITHIN 10 DAYS

Washington, April 20—(AP)—Congressional leaders announced today President Roosevelt would send a message to congress in a week or ten days setting forth his views on necessary anti-inflation measures.

House Majority Leader McCormack said this message probably would be followed shortly by a fireside radio address on the same subject.

Although he avoided use of the word "inflation," to which the president has expressed objection, McCormack said the message to congress would deal with "the cost of living during the war" and with "the factors that enter into it."

Wages would be included as one of those factors, he said, along with such other things, probably, as taxes, profits, and savings. While the chief executive's message is expected to be more in the nature of an outline of administration policy than a definite request for specific legislation, McCormack would not go into details on it.

The program, it was understood, has not been drafted in its final form.

The message and the radio address which probably will come along shortly afterward are expected to present the results of weeks of study by administration officials who are confronted with the grave problem of spiraling prices and expanding purchasing power.

Ousting of Tacoma Police Comish Is Sought in Cleanup

Tacoma, April 20—(AP)—Commissioner of Police Holmes Eastwood was asked to resign today by Mayor Harry P. Cain as a direct result of the threatened army ban which military officials at Fort Lewis had said would descend on the city at 9 a.m.

The ban has evidently been postponed, Mayor Cain said this morning, in order that the army can watch developments in the city's effort to rid itself of commercialized prostitution.

Mayor Cain said he called on Col. Ralph R. Glass, post commander, early this morning but would not comment on the suggestion that the ban had been held up pending Commissioner Eastwood's decision on resignation which will be given to the city council in a special session this afternoon.

The mayor said there were "other alternatives" if Eastwood did not offer his resignation this afternoon.
