etc., on through the farm commodity list.

The political advantages of all this primary part of the plan, from the administration standpoint, lie in the fact that it is not proposed actually to freeze wages or farm prices themselves, but to get at them indirectly.

There are other political aspects. In the discussion stage is an idea of confiscating all big wages above a certain amount, say $25,000 or $50,000. It would not bring in much revenue, but it would be popular with the labor and farm groups.

Another feature of the plan would confiscate all profits above 6 percent beyond all cost.

ing and proposed business taxes, but this has once been turned down in congress.

The whole plan is subject, of course, to congressional approval. Another thing: It seems now that when Price Fixer Leon Henderson and Vice President Wallace surrendered to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau there was an understanding that the voluntary method of raising money for the war would be continued beyond a few months only if it works, that is, only for a trial period.

Henderson and Wallace apparently were content to wait. Morgenthau intends to fool them by making it work.

WILLKIE ran away with the publicity honors of the compromise adopted by the Republican national committee at Chicago, but the opposition claimed a majority of the committee.

The senate cloakroom is comforting itself with the information that Mr. Willkie had only 15 committeemen at an advance meeting in New York. He had more than that bare one-sixth of the 96 committeemen at Chicago, but the Washington boys think Taft would have won on a showdown by about 35 to 35.

Where Willkie stole the show was not in the voting, but in the advance planning. He pulled no surprise on the senators.

Return Showing

Gene Tierney, America's most talked-about new star, stars with Randolph Scott in the story of "Belle Starr," the old west's most ruthless woman bandit which plays tonight and Saturday only at the Roxy theater. The picture is filmed in technicolor in the Jessie James country.

Before the meeting word came down here of what he intended.

But it was just not a od patriotism, politics or sense from either his standpoint or theirs to start a row, as Willkie well knew. Thus he had his opponents in a position where they were willing to give more than he did in a resolution pledging only post-war leadership of the world for the purposes of liberty and opposition to warfare.

In this conflict, both Willkie and Taft were running like lead horses for 1944, and this was the most important aspect of the matter.

The resolution was written for the purpose of the coming congressional elections in which each individual candidate will run on his own platform anyway. The 1944 presidential nominating convention will determine the policy of that race. And where was Mr. Dewey in the conflict—nowhere in sight. He has not shown up yet, but certainly will when he runs for governor of New York state next fall.

Dunn Commends Cohorts

To the editor: Having been honored for the past 20 years by being given the opportunity to serve as state senator, I wish to take this means of expressing my sincere appreciation for the honor conferred upon me. I want to thank the people for the courteous tolerance and helpful support tendered me during all the time I have tried to serve. Time is inexorable in its allotment of vim and vigor to mere men; and it always limits the activities of the individual in this mundane vale of "blood, sweat and tears" to a reasonable term. Having long since passed the Biblical allotment of three score and ten years, I felt it not only prudent for me but an obligation to leave the work incumbent upon the office of state senator to a younger and abler person.

It has been my good fortune to have served with earnest, competent and able representatives from this district. We have had but one purpose in view and that purpose was to serve to the best of our ability. Experience in legislative work is of vital importance to a member and to his constituents. It is wise to keep well trained servants, if capable and trustworthy, to serve you in the legislature, and, in this coming election, I wish to commend for consideration the candidacies of our present representatives whom I know have fulfilled the duties of their offices with ability, courage and courtesy so as to command the respect and assistance of their fellow officers in all matters of legislation.

Our country now needs trained men more than ever before in her history. Whether we face defeat or victory depends upon those whom we delegate to represent us. We have a war to win. We must unitedly put forth every atom of our ability to aid with our every resource and with our lives, if need be, to attain that end.

Hoping to be able to help in all matters for the preservation of our country, I am,

Yours truly,

GEO. W. DUNN.

School Crossings

To the editor: This is my first attempt at writing to a local newspaper but there is something apparently lacking in Medford which is, or should be, of major concern to parents of younger children attending grade schools.

For the first time in many years I find myself living in a small city which has absolutely no protection whatever for school children who find it necessary to cross heavily traveled streets on their way to and from school, other than a sign reading "school crossing" and a couple of white stripes painted on the pavement. I question whether one could drive from Vancouver, B. C., to Los Angeles without finding adequate protection for the school kids in the majority of towns and cities, either in the form of local police, school-boy patrols or state patrols, during to and from school periods. I have noted many times that even our smaller neighboring city of Ashland has school-boy patrols.

Many mornings while driving my seven-year-old to school I have noticed school kids darting in and out of traffic in order to get across Crater Lake avenue en route to Roosevelt school and although Medford has to my knowledge a remarkable record on this accident question how long will it continue with traffic conditions as they now are? Would it be impossible for the local police to take time off during these to and from school periods and patrol these school crossings?

We rave about over-time parking, we rave about traffic congestion in the business district, and about one-way traffic. Why not a little raving about school kids safety? Do you think this is a worth-while issue? Or is it?
