

Veronica Lake's New Comedy Hit, "Sullivan's Travels" Opens Today

JOEL M'CREA IS CO-STARRED IN SCREWBALL ROLE

Co-starring glamorous Veronica Lake and broad-shouldered Joel McCrea, "Sullivan's Travels" brings one of the year's top laugh hits to the Craterian theatre today for a three day run.

That honey-blond Veronica, who scored so impressively in "I Wanted Wings" as an alluring siren, was chosen for the chief feminine role in the uproarious comedy, has occasioned quite a stir among film followers. Veronica, in the minds of many, was destined to go on playing "vamp" roles.

But these film devotees, after all, had seen Veronica in only one picture and didn't know her versatility. Then, too, they didn't reckon on a fellow named Preston Sturges, who sees a lot that most directors don't. Pairing tall, handsome Joel McCrea and luscious Veronica Lake as a romantic comedy screen team is a stroke of good judgment that can be attributed only to wily Sturges. Advance reports are that they make an exciting and smooth-working duo.

The story of "Sullivan's Travels" sounds like a natural for comedy. Sturges creates a character named John L. Sullivan, a screwball Hollywood director who has made a success directing comedies, but who wants to make pictures of social significance heavy with "messages." Of course, if we know Sturges—and we do by now—he plays this up kiddingly. The idea is that Sullivan, played by McCrea, goes out into the world dressed as a hobo, ready to learn about the tougher aspects of life. What he learns convinces him that he can best serve people by bringing more laughter into the world—which is what he does.

In between he meets beautiful, provocative Veronica, and takes her along with him on his travels, dressed as a hoboette. To be sure, Veronica gets plenty of opportunity to wear glamour clothes and bathing suits. What happens to them as they go careening around the country provides many of the hilarious "Sullivan's Travels" situations.

Gneisenau Damage Heavy
New York, April 25. (AP)—The British radio reported today the 26,000-ton German battleship Gneisenau was so heavily damaged during the German fleet's mid-February dash through the channel that she has laid up at the Baltic port of Gdynia "for extensive repairs."

Professors Investigate in "Ball of Fire"

He looks at her throat where he could just as well—well Gary Cooper is the absent-minded professor who, with his colleagues, endeavors to rewrite the encyclopedia and hires cabaret dancer Barbara Stanwyck to explain "slang," all of which leads to some of the most hilarious brand of fun ever filmed in "Ball of Fire," coming Wednesday to the Craterian theatre. Needless to say, the professor succumbs to the dancer's "schmalzando."

The Grange

Eagle Point Grange
Grange was called to order by Master I. R. Kline. Two officers were absent.

Agriculture committee chairman J. C. Lusk reported there would be a representative of the county agent's office at the Grange hall in Eagle Point on April 28 at 9 a. m. with poison grain. People of the community are urged to be there at that time and join in distribution of this grain for eradication of squirrels.

Ways and means committee, with help of the H. E. will sponsor a supper party soon. A gift was presented to our newly-wed members, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hanscom. H.E.C. will meet April 29. Ladies are reminded to bring plants for the sale and come prepared to work, either cleaning hall or working in yard.

"All That Money Can Buy"

James Craig and Anne Shirley have starring roles with Edward Arnold, Walter Huston, Simone Simon and Jane Darwell in "All That Money Can Buy," from the Saturday Evening Post story by Stephen Vincent Benet. The comedy comes to the Rialto theatre for Wednesday and Thursday with "Bullet Scars," featuring Regis Toomey, as the companion feature.

GENERAL ESCAPES FROM NAZI CAMP

Berlin (from German broadcasts), April 25.—(AP)—Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud, commander of a group of armies in the "battle of the bulge" in northern France two years ago, has escaped from the fortress at Koenigstein, Germany, the Berlin radio said today. Gen. Giraud had been a prisoner of war since May 21, 1940. The Germans said he had been granted special facilities because of poor health.

A 100,000 marks reward was offered for his recapture and the Germans said anyone assisting him in his flight would be punished by death.

Portland, April 25.—(AP)—Produce prices steady, unchanged.

Bad Man

Dennis Morgan has one of the two-gun roles with Wayne Morris and Arthur Kennedy as the "Bad Men of Missouri," which heads bill playing for today and tomorrow only at the Roxy theatre.

"Buy Me That Town," featuring Lloyd Nolan, plays as the companion excitement hit with the Western.

ADDITIONAL DAY TO SUGAR BUYERS

Portland, April 25.—(AP)—Oregon housewives today received an additional day of grace to make sugar purchases preparatory to registration and rationing.

W. S. Dirker, state sugar rationing director, said sales could be made up to Monday midnight instead of halting Sunday midnight as he announced yesterday. No sugar will be sold from April 28 until rationing begins on May 5.

People's Music In New Film Musical Blues in the Night

Sweet and low-down. The soft wail of a muted trumpet. The dull pulsating rhythms of a bass drum. Music of the people. The streets. Of slamming doors and roaring trains. That's the sort of music audiences will hear in "Blues in the Night," which opens a three-day run today at the Rialto theatre. It is a down to earth story of a barnstorming jazz band whose musicians have their own idea of what "swing music" means.

In the starring roles are newcomers Richard Whorf, lovely Priscilla Lane and Betty Field. Besides such fine performers in the lead, the rest of the cast consists of one of the season's finest group of supporting players—Lloyd Nolan, Jack Carson, Ella Kazan, Nolan Ford and many others. All contribute their share in making "Blues in the Night" something really different in the way of film musicals. "You're Telling Me," starring Hugh Herbert, plays as the added feature.
