

Ann Sheridan, Robert Cummings In "Kings Row" On Craterian Screen

CHARLES COBURN, JUDITH ANDERSON AMONG THE STARS

Ronald Reagan and Betty Field In Cast — Show Opens Today.

"Kings Row," the eagerly-awaited film version of the Henry Bellamann novel, opens today at The Craterian Theater. Ann Sheridan, Robert Cummings, Ronald Reagan and Betty Field are starred and the featured cast is headed by Charles Coburn, Judith Anderson, Claude Rains, Nancy Coleman, Maria Ouspenskaya, Harry Davenport and Kaaren Verne.

This is the story of young people, struggling to find their happiness against the opposition of circumstance and misunderstanding. The background of the story is the seething undercurrent of small city life, the petty jealousies, the pathetic struggle for survival, the clash of ideas and ideals between individuals and generations.

It is particularly the story of two romances, one between Ann Sheridan, playing Randy Monaghan, and Ronald Reagan, as Drake McHugh, and the other a three-way affair, first between Robert Cummings as Parris Mitchell and Betty Field as Cassandra Tower and later, after "Cassie" dies, between Cummings and Kaaren Verne as Elise Sandor. Woven into the intricate tale of these lives and loves is the whole parcel and pattern of small city doings, the back-fence gossip, the whispered accusations, the high spots of love and sacrifice that go to make up life in any typically American community.
