MANY WILL HELP IN ORCHARD WORK

Lewis Ulrich, manager of the Oregon State Employment Service here, said today that approximately 250 inquiries had been received, most of them from high school students, concerning thinning work and general farm labor, following a recent call for orchard help.

Most of the orchards planned to start thinning Monday, but because of weather conditions some have postponed their starting to later in the week. Mr. Ulrich said. He added that the number of persons answering the call was extremely gratifying.

Getting no action on his request to go to China in 1929, Corporal Richard C. Harrington of the U. S. Marines stowed away and got as far as Hawaii.
