

HOME HOSPITALITY FOR SOLDIER BOYS IS LOCAL EFFORT

Mrs. Braley, Chairman of Committee, Lining Up
Volunteer Sources.

Mrs. C. Rease Braley has accepted the appointment as chairman of home hospitality for enlisted men according to an announcement yesterday by Mrs. A. S. V. Carpenter, chairman of the civilian defense recreation committee for Jackson county. Volunteer committees appointed by Mrs. Braley will be assisted by the Works Project Administration in compiling lists of names and places available for home hospitality.

This project will require the combined efforts of the people of this defense area and it is expected that many will volunteer their service, it was stated. Those who wish to volunteer for this activity are asked to contact Mrs. Braley or Mrs. Carpenter.

To date, Mrs. Braley, general in charge, has secured her corps of captains, who in turn will appoint lieutenants to contact available sources for home hospitality. Captains with specific group assignments include: Mrs. Don Newbury, churches; Mrs. William Holloway, fraternal and patriotic; Mrs. Justin Smith, women's clubs; Mrs. George Frey, civic auxiliaries; Mrs. Cleo Gilchrist, Gold Hill; Mrs. C. H. Taylor, Central Point; Mrs. Berthold Barnum, Phoenix; and Mrs. A. L. Beck, Jacksonville.

PUBLISHERS HEAR JUSTICE DOUGLAS, DISTILLERY HEAD

Gearhart, June 20.—(AP)—Jack B. Bladine, publisher of the McMinnville Telephone Register, today was nominated for the presidency of the Oregon Newspaper Publishers' association.

The assembled publishers heard J. B. Deacon of New York, distillery executive, predict that by September no more whiskey would be produced in the United States for the duration. Distilleries are being converted to defense use rapidly. There is, however, a four-year stock of liquor on the nation's shelves so the stoppage of distilling of spirits will not immediately be noticed, he said.

The American people are not like the befuddled subjects of Hitler who must be told anew each January that their opponents will collapse this year, U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas told Oregon newspaper publishers tonight.

SAILOR MARRIED TO OWN SURPRISE

Des Moines, Ia., June 20.—(P)—A young Iowan enlisted in the navy here, telling the recruiting officer he was single.

With several hours to kill before leaving for a training station, the recruit wandered about town, met several friends.

"What does your wife think about your enlistment?" asked one.

"My wife?" ejaculated the astonished Iowan.

The friends explained the recruit had been married during a rather hilarious "farewell" party for him the night before.

The young man quickly looked up the girl, talked things over and brought her to the recruiting office, where she gave her consent and his enlistment papers were changed from "single" to "married."

CHENNAULT HONORED

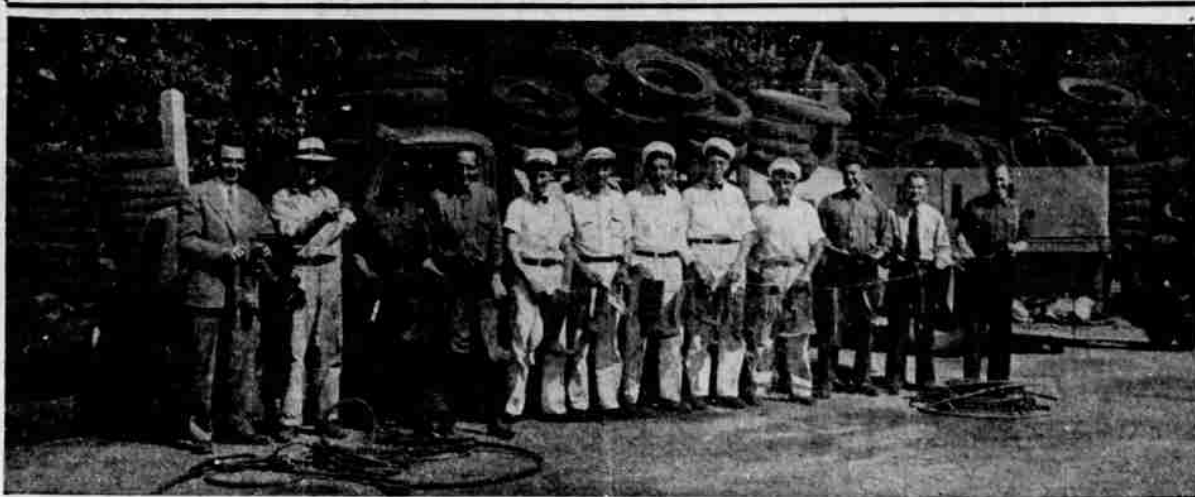

Chungking, June 20.—(P)—Brig. Gen. Claire L. Chennault was presented with a sword at a dinner given for him and others by his American volunteer group of fliers last night by Finance Minister and Madame H. H. Kung on the occasion of the dragon-boat festival, one of China's great annual holidays.

EUGENE AWARDED STATE GOP MEET; BIG AIDES ASKED

Salem, June 20.—(P)—Executive committee members designated Eugene as the site for the 1942 convention of the Oregon Republican Club at an all-day session here today. The convention will be held early in the fall.

Plans to hold the meeting at Bend, previously voted by the committee, were changed because of transportation uncertainties, President R. M. Fischer of Eugene explained.

Fischer announced that convention planners hoped to have one of four nationally prominent Republicans attend—Wendell L. Willkie, Thomas E. Dewey, U. S. Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg or Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota.

Frank Loneragan, Portland, delivered the only address at a luncheon given at noon by the Marion County Republican Club Chapter in honor of the visitors, of candidates and of local party officials. Joseph B. Felton, Chapter president, presided.

SHELL EMPLOYEES WORKING HARD ON RUBBER SALVAGE

Over 55,000 pounds of scrap rubber in five days is the achievement of Shell Oil company employees in the Jackson county area, cooperating in the nation-wide salvage drive, according to Ted Hornecker, local manager, who released the figures Saturday. The company's aides have gathered in over 4,000,000 pounds in four days in the state, Mr. Hornecker said.

While the total brought in so far has been impressive, Mr. Hornecker feels that much additional rubber may be obtained if each householder will make a diligent search and inventory on his own premises. "If each home in Medford would give ten pounds of scrap rubber, the total would fill ten trucks," Hornecker said, pointing out that the smaller pieces of rubber salvaged from homes is much more desirable than the type which can be reclaimed from old tires.

Ordered to devote their entire time including Saturdays and Sundays to the rubber drive, the local Shell staff has formed two teams, the "Scrap Rubber Pack Rats," and the "Scavengers," to bring the competition element into their efforts. The men are under orders to give all their attention to the campaign, except for essential business.

Rubber left at Shell stations throughout Jackson county is being taken to the company's plant on South Central avenue to await government shipping orders. In addition to Shell stations, rubber may be left at any service station, all attendants being authorized to make payment for same.

Civilian Defense Activities

Instruction in the civilian defense general course will be started Tuesday night, June 23, and continue Thursday night, June 25 at 7:30 in rooms 34 or 35 at the senior high school. The ladies motor corps and drivers of all divisions are urgently asked to attend. This course is required for air raid wardens, fire watchers and others in civilian defense, so make arrangements to attend these courses.

The Medford Athletic association has announced there will be a truck and a man to accept scrap rubber on Sunday at the ball park, on the same basis as the service stations.
