

HON. HUGH GRANT ENVOY, LECTURER MEDFORD VISITOR

Friend of Syd Brown Family
Now Lecturing at Army
Posts on World Affairs.

A visitor in Medford the last two days has been the Honorable Hugh G. Grant, American diplomat and civilian lecturer for the army orientation course. During his stay here he has been residing at Hotel Medford and yesterday enjoyed a motor trip to Crater Lake with local friends, Mrs. W. J. Noland of GeBauer apartments and Mrs. Syd Brown of 504 South Holly street.

Grant snatched a few days relaxation between his appointments as lecturer at various army posts under the direction of the U. S. war department to visit here. He is enroute south after lecturing in Portland and left early this morning for California.

Grant is an old friend of the Brown family, having known Sheriff Syd Brown's mother in Alabama when he was private secretary to Senator Black, before he was elevated to the diplomatic field.

Grant's recent years have been filled with a wealth of dramatic experiences, he having acted as minister to Albania, 1935-40 and to Thailand, 1940-41. He remained at his post in Albania during the Italian occupation of that country, finally liquidated American interests and closed the American legation after the war broke out in Europe.

He made a close study of the whole Far Eastern situation and said that similar tactics as employed in Europe can be seen in the Japanese attack in the Pacific. Enroute to his post in Thailand Grant visited Hawaii, Japan, Hong Kong, Shanghai, the Philippines, Singapore, Malaya and has talked with President Quezon of the Philippine commonwealth; General Douglas MacArthur and other names of note in present news dispatches.

He pointed out the necessity of winning the war and then talking about "post-war reconstruction." He said recently, while in Portland, that "we have the potentialities and we will win in the end, but we must expect a long and hard conflict."

Jackson County Breeders Win National Recognition

A Guernsey bull, Rex of Cloverhill bred by Charles A. Wing of Medford and owned by Peter E. Betz and Russell S. Ebbert of Eagle Point, has just won national recognition. This bull, having five daughters which have made creditable official records, has been entered in the Advanced Register of the American Guernsey Cattle Club. Rex of Cloverhill will be known hereafter as an advanced register sire.

Only Guernseys which meet high production requirements are eligible for entry. The five daughters which have completed official records are Rogue View's Sunbeam, Silver Tip's Ruth, Rogue View's Janice, Nancy Martha Lee, and Rogue View's Glory.

Grasshoppers Rampant in Jackson County

Grasshoppers have been showing up in various sections of the county for the past two weeks and they are much more prevalent than any previous season of late years. The hoppers can do a great deal of injury in a very short time unless means are taken to combat them.

Young grasshoppers eat poisoned bait much more readily than do the adults, and only a very small amount is required to kill one. Young grasshoppers usually stay in or around their hatching ground for about two weeks and then move into crops in search of food. If they can be poisoned before this movement begins, less bait would be required and damage would be largely prevented.

When grasshoppers migrate into a field of growing crops, only prompt use of bait can be expected to save the crop. Weather conditions and the time of day the bait is spread are largely responsible for good results. The hoppers feed very little during cool or cloudy weather, feeding occurs on bright, warm days and is very light during temperatures below 70. Bait should be spread thinly and thoroughly, as such spreading gives the largest kill and also eliminates poisoning of livestock, poultry and birds. Approximately 20 pounds of wet weight per acre gives excellent results.

Do not look for results the first day after poisoning. The arsenicals used are rather slow acting and require four or five days to kill, although the hoppers become sick shortly after eating the bait. They are usually hard to find, as they crawl under the plants, weeds and debris.

Experiments show that there is very little danger to livestock, poultry, etc., if the bait is properly spread. Caution should be used in handling the bait. The hands should be protected with vasoline or grease and immediately after spreading the hands should be thoroughly washed with soap and water.

Following is the formula for the mixture of poisoned-bran bait most commonly used: Coarse bran, 100 pounds; sawdust, equal in bulk to 33 pounds bran; sodium arsenite (4 lb. material), 2 gallons; water, 10 to 40 gallons. Note: Only enough water is added to moisten the bait without causing it to become sloppy or even wet enough for the flakes to stick together. If the sawdust is wet, reduce the water proportionately. It would be best to make a trial batch in order to determine the exact quantity of water needed. The water should always be measured for a large batch, as guessing frequently results in too dry or too sloppy bait.

DON'T FORGET THAT THIS IS POISON.

Oil Proves Effective Corn Ear Worm Control

Early planted corn is now starting to silk which means that worms will soon be attacking the ears. There are two control measures for this pest. The old standard remedy was to dust the silks with calcium arsenate. Recently it has been found that mineral oil is quite effective in killing the worms. If calcium arsenate is to be used, it should be dusted onto the tips of the ears within three days of the time that the silks appear. It will be necessary to repeat this twice at three day intervals. It is not necessary to apply the dust to the leaves as the eggs are laid on the silks and when they hatch they immediately start into the end of the ear, eating the silks as they go. If the silks are covered with the poison the worm will be killed. Occasionally eggs are laid on the tassels so if worms are observed feeding there, they should also be dusted.

The oil treatment is very effective, but it must be used with a great deal of care. One-fourth teaspoon of 120-150 viscosity mineral oil is squirted into each ear with a force oiler. Any force oiler is suitable if it is adjusted to squirt one-fourth teaspoon with each pull of the trigger. The feed stores and oil companies carry the mineral oil in stock. If it contains a small amount of pyrethrum, its effectiveness is increased.

The oil should be applied three days after the silks appear. At this time they will be wilting and starting to turn brown. If applied before this time, pollination will be retarded and the ear will not fill properly. If applied much later, control will be poor. Properly applied, this treatment will give about ninety per cent control of the worms. The cost will be about two cents per dozen. By C. B. CORDY, Assistant County Agent.

Germany Refuses Further Exchange

Washington, July 2.—(AP)—Germany has refused to provide safe conduct for future voyages of the liner Drottningholm and the United States therefore regards the exchange agreement between the two governments as terminated, the state department announced today.

115 MORE DOOMED BY GERMAN CONQUERORS

London, July 2.—(AP)—Court martials in Prague and Bruenn sentenced 115 persons to death yesterday, the Vichy radio, quoting reports from Budapest, said today.

The sentences were given on charges of having been in contact with enemy agents, for approving the attack on the late Gestapo leader, Reinhard Heydrich, for failing to report to the police or for illegal possession of arms, the French radio said.

HEAVY SALE OF STAMPS

Portland, July 2.—(AP)—Post offices throughout Oregon reported heavy sales of federal automobile stamps, required on all vehicles effective July 1. J. W. Maloney, collector of internal revenue, said federal officers would begin tagging cars not having the $5 stamps immediately.

PACKING SCHOOL TO BE CONDUCTED AGAIN THIS YEAR

Vocational Education and Fruit Growers League Cooperating—Short Course.

The state department of vocational education is again cooperating with the Medford School district and Fruit Growers League of Jackson county in sponsoring a pear packing school for people of southern Oregon, league officials announced today.

This will be the third year the packing school has operated. According to a survey made by Walter Morse of the state department of vocational education, students finishing the course are able to increase their earning power materially. This is especially true considering the number of training hours put in by the student. The course this year will last from 10 to 14 days with one session being held from 9 to 12 and the second from 1 to 4. A student may register for either the morning or afternoon session.

Before Session Opens
Present plans call for the school to be given just before picking and packing of pears begins.

Any resident of southern Oregon past 16 years of age may enroll. There will be a small fee charged each student. Students will be placed under qualified instructors. Students may progress as rapidly as they show ability.

There will be no commercial pack made at the school this year. Instead, students will be sent directly to the packing houses upon completion of the course.

Anyone interested in enrolling is requested to get in touch with the employment offices of any local packing house or with L. B. Mayfield, senior high school, phone 4970.

MACHINERY CURB

Medford Zontians Take Keen Interest In Annual Conclave

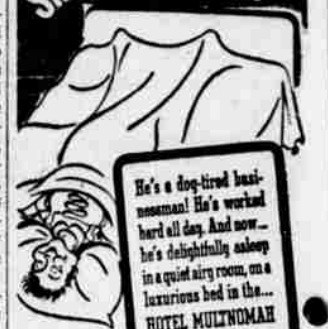

As a further evidence of international good will and cooperation on the North American continent, Zonta International opened its twenty-second annual convention in Toronto this week. While no members are attending from the Medford chapter, events in the north are being followed with keen interest here, Mrs. Effie Kurtz, local president, stated in reporting the convention theme: "Gentle for War, Zonta Thinks of Peace." The Canadian Zontians, headed by Miss Dorothy A. Thompson of Toronto are acting hostesses.

Because of war time emergencies the Medford club was granted a special release from sending delegates to the convention, usually a required procedure, Mrs. Kurtz explained.

The fire control equipment of a battleship costs more than $1,000,000.
