

WHAT TO DO IN GAS ATTACK IS RECITED BY OGD

Seattle—(Spl.)—Adequate protection against gas attacks does not require the equipping of the entire civilian population with gas masks, nor is there any immediate contemplation of such a program according to a statement today by Stanley W. Donogh, director of the northwest sector of the Office of Civilian Defense.

"There seems to be considerable confusion on the part of the public concerning gas attacks and need for gas masks," said Donogh. "It is true that we have received a large number of masks and we are hoping to receive additional supplies. These are being allocated to the most effective places for training and protective purposes," he said.

Donogh states that contrary to popular belief gas does not spread over wide areas but is concentrated in limited districts and hangs close to the ground. It is comparatively easy for the public in affected areas to avoid danger by leaving the area or by going to the upper story of their home or a downtown building.

Instructions for protection against gas were outlined by Mr. Donogh as follows:

1. Self aid is the best aid for prevention of injuries due to war gases. War gases are usually not dangerous if you take steps immediately to remove them from the eyes and skin. Effective means to accomplish this should be in the kitchen and bathroom of every home. Always keep on stock a supply of laundry soap and baking soda.
2. If you are inside a building, remain there and go up stairs, for war gases cling to the ground. Do not leave your home unless it is absolutely necessary. If you are outside and not able to get indoors immediately, walk—don't run—to get out of the gas area. Avoid puddles of liquid agent and basements, valleys and other low places.
3. If you have been exposed to a war gas—a. Breathe through cloths wet with baking soda solution. b. If you are outside of a building, first remove your outer clothing and leave it outside before entering. c. Wash your hands and then your face with laundry soap and water. d. Wash your eyes at once with a large amount of a solution of baking soda in a glass of water. e. Take a bath using plenty of laundry soap. f. Wash your eyes again with baking soda solution. Repeat.
4. If splashes of liquid gas have gotten on you—a. Blot up as much liquid as you can and be careful not to spread it. b. Daub the contaminated area with cloths wet with Chlorox or other similar chlorine solution. c. Repeat steps b, c and d in 3 above.
5. Remain calm. Lie down and cover yourself with a blanket. Medical aid is on the way. There is no immediate serious danger from exposure to any known war gas.

POSTPONE DENTAL MEET
Chicago, July 6.—(AP)—The 84th annual meeting of the American Dental Association, one of the nation's largest medical-professional conventions scheduled for Boston, Mass., Aug. 24 to 28, has been postponed for the duration of the war, it was announced today.

Patriotic Thief Takes Tribune's American Flags

A patriotic thief, in such anomaly can exist, has made off with the Mail Tribune's two curb flags, it was discovered Saturday when they were needed for placement in front of the office as a Fourth of July observance.

The two flags, four by six feet in size and attached to eight-foot poles were purchased from the Medford American Legion post some years ago to fly on patriotic occasions, along with those of many other business places of the city. The banners were stored in the office when not in use and exact date of their taking could not be determined.

CHARLES CLIFFORD CALLED BY DEATH

Charles Sidney Clifford passed away at his home on Mace avenue Saturday afternoon after a long illness.

Mr. Clifford, who owned and operated a small saw mill on Evans Creek was born in Sidney, Colorado July 23, 1884. In 1907 he went to Los Angeles, Cal., where he married Loretta May Neely in 1908. To this union were born two children, Edith and Grace. Grace preceded her father in death two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford went to Puyallup, Wash., and engaged in the logging business. In 1931 Mr. Clifford brought his family to Medford where they have resided since.

Mr. Clifford is survived by his wife, one daughter, Edith Lovejoy, of Akanogan, Wash. his mother, Mrs. Mary Clifford, Puyallup; three sisters, Lula Gilkey, of Puyallup, three brothers, Edwin Guy, Puyallup, Wash., George and Noble E. of Conconilly, Wash.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. The Rev. Harry Downey of the Full Gospel Church will officiate and interment will be at the Jacksonville cemetery.

HANNA HOLDING WATER HEARING

A hearing on the determination of water rights on Lake Creek was being held today by Circuit Judge H. K. Hanna. Attorney James T. Chinnock of Grants Pass, and representatives of the state engineer's office will present records and other evidence.

With the ending of the damage suit of Stephen J. Cline against the Pacific Greyhound stages last Friday, the current calendar of the circuit court has been fairly well cleared save for routine matters. The jury returned a verdict in favor of the stage company, and disallowed their counter-claim.

In August, it is the custom for many circuit court jurors to take the annual vacation.

LAY MORE LINOLEUM
The work of laying new linoleum in courthouse office is still underway with the basement floor completed. New covering is now being laid in the assessor's, treasurer's and sheriff's offices. It will also be laid in the circuit court chambers and of the, and the courtroom.

Oil Butte Falls Road As Anti-Dust Measure

The county is spreading some dust oil on the Butte Falls road and in other sections, but it will be limited due to lack of transportation facilities. No crude oil for heavy oiling is available.

Some heavy oil has been applied on cantonment district roads. Some of the workers went through oiled strips at a high rate of speed, and now want payment for smearing damage to their autos, County Judge J. B. Coleman said. In one instance, where this occurred, an oiled strip was left for traffic, the judge said.

ICKES OPPOSES McNARY FOREST CONTROL BILLS

Washington, July 6.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes of the interior department has made adverse reports to the senate on two bills by Senator McNary designed to promote sustained yield forest management.

The secretary said the bills (S789 and S1093) contained defects and did not adequately provide for the proper placement of authority to handle the problem.

HOME, SWEET HOME

Dallas, July 6.—(AP)—Friends of Midshipman Robert E. Netting can call at any time with the certainty that he will be at home. His midshipmen's cap was stolen soon after his arrival. He can't leave his house without proper uniform dress, and nowhere in the city can he find a replacement.

CHERRY PICKING PEAK THIS WEEK

Peak of the cherry picking will be reached in the Medford area this week, and a few days later in the Ashland section, C. B. Cordy, county horticulturist, reported today. The fruit is being shipped to California markets by express.

Some of the earlier varieties of peaches are now on the market, but it will be a month before the main varieties—Elbertas and Hales—will be harvested. Thinning of peaches has about been completed in many orchards.

The warm weather of the past week has been beneficial to grain crops, and some wheat has started to head. Haying is being hampered by shortage of help.

FLIER DECORATED
Portland, July 6.—(AP)—A silver star was awarded Lieut. Dean Davenport, one of the Tokyo bombers, in a Fourth of July review at the Portland army air base. The award was made to the Portland pilot "for gallantry in action subsequent to the raid on Japan April 18, 1942."

"Does the War affect MY business?"

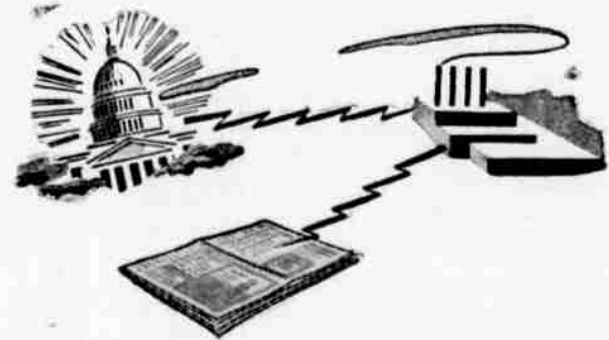

"You bet it does! As a retailer, I'm the link, you might say, between manufacturer and consumer. And what affects each of them under these wartime conditions is mighty important to me."

2. "Why? Well, they've always turned to newspapers for news ... and that means buying news in the ads, too. Today, with all this big war news popping, more people than ever are reading newspapers ... and paying even closer attention to the ads."

3. "It's plain to see what this means to manufacturers. They know the best help they can give me in moving their goods off my shelves is newspaper advertising here in this community. And today this is stronger, faster-acting support than ever."

4. "Then, too, manufacturers these days often have to change their sales or distribution plans overnight, and newspapers are the only place where they can keep their advertising in step with these sudden changes, and keep customers coming in here."

This retailer is right! Wartime conditions are changing the making and selling and buying of goods. And the service of newspaper advertising, to manufacturer, dealer, and consumer, is greater than ever before. Today, more than ever, manufacturers produce more sales for their retailers ... and themselves ... when they advertise in local newspapers.
