

NEW TANK PLANT NOW ROLLING OUT "GENERAL LEES"

Fisher Body of General Motors Making All-Welded Tanks by Trainload.

Detroit, July 24—(P)—General Motors Corporation disclosed today with war department approval that the new army tank plant built by its Fisher Body division has been completed and is rolling out the all-welded M-4 type of land dreads in train-load quantities.

Lines of freight cars loaded with tanks wrapped in protective covering now leave the plant on a special track almost daily, the announcement said.

When the United States entered the war, the welded M-4 tank was only in a blueprint stage. In January Fisher Body received a contract to build the new type of battle wagon, and although the first tank was not scheduled to be built until the new plant was completed, engineers went to work immediately in another factory. The first of the M-4's was turned out in 47 days. By the time the new plant was finished large numbers of the new tanks had been started on their way to the battle front.

The M-4's are designated "General Lees" by the British, the war department in Washington said, and some have already seen action on the Egyptian battlefield. The tanks are 28 to 30-ton machines, about the same size as the "General Grants."

Among the principal developments in the M-4 tank over its predecessors is increased fire power and improved location of the 75MM gun in a turret that revolves in a complete circle. In addition it is highly maneuverable and is protected by a tough hide of heavy armor plate.

A Great Little Guy

She was saying, he was the youngest looking sailor she ever saw—really too young to be in uniform. Only a boy, couldn't be over 14. She didn't know his name, but I knew well who she was talking about. We called him Porky. He was actually 19, but looked 14. Round chubby red face, always smiling—the cutest little fellow you ever saw. Toted his golf bags during Sunday's golf. Always bright, keen and alert. Never had to tell him to hurry—or where did my ball go? Porky was always two jumps ahead and knew in what direction to start looking.

So Porky was in the Navy and back in town because the lady at our bridge table said she saw him that very afternoon—the youngest looking sailor she ever saw, just a little boy in a big uniform. It seemed good to see him again, sitting there in the restaurant booth but I could tell there was something wrong. His little white hat was setting cocky enough on his head all right, but he looked thinner than when I last saw him and I could see something was bothering him.

"How do you like the Navy, Porky?" I asked while munching a sandwich.

"Oh fine, I guess, Mr. Green. Like my work at the base well. Had to come home, lost my dad. Going back tomorrow. Sure hope I get good news when I get back."

"What good news are you looking for, Porky?"

"Well, Mr. Green, it's kinda tough on little guys like me in the Navy—oh, everyone's decent to us all right—t isn't that so much, but we get pushed around an awful lot. No one in the Navy has much time for little guys like me. Too busy, I guess. I asked for a transfer to the Blimp service—you see, Mr. Green, there's one place in the whole fighting force where little guys are needed and appreciated. Those blimps got to travel high and light so they need little guys to sail 'em."

"Dear Mr. Green.

"Arrived back at base okay. I got the good news all right. I'll soon be blimping and boy, am I happy? Can hardly sleep. Gaining back my weight, too.

"Your friend,

"Porky."

"God bless you, Porky, and I hope all little guys like you have their prayers answered too."

Oregon Legionnaires Consider Plea for Draft of All Men

Portland, July 24—(P)—Oregon legionnaires opened their annual convention today with resolutions on hand that would call for the draft of all manpower and would move Japanese evacuees to points farther inland.

The two-day convention was stripped to essentials. Commanding Joseph K. Carson declared, with all entertainment eliminated.

The 8 and 40, auxiliary group, elected officers at a pre-convention meeting yesterday. Those named: Mrs. Lucille Freeman, Portland, president; Mrs. Eva Gray, Portland, first vice-president; Mrs. Hazel Alden, Seaside, second vice-president; Mrs. Grace Jones, Eugene, chaplain; Mrs. Veva Hill, Portland, historian; Mrs. Sophia Urell, Astoria, Sergeant-at-Arms; Mrs. Walter Tagessell, Portland, mistress of ceremonies (appointed); Mrs. Pauline Lenneville, Portland, secretary (appointed); Mrs. Alex Barry, Portland, national Pouvoir member.

ARMY WILL TEND TO SLUGGING PAIR

James J. McAtee and William Owens, army sergeants stationed at Camp White, were yesterday granted six months suspended sentences on charges of assault and battery, and turned over to military authorities. They were originally charged with assault with intent to rob, in a complaint signed by Hugh McGinty of Jacksonville. Following a conference with the district attorney, sheriff, and Lieut. G. W.

Ball, the charges were reduced to a misdemeanor. They were formally paroled to Lieut. Ball, who indicated disciplinary action would follow.

The incident grew out of a chance meeting in a beer parlor a week ago between the two soldiers and McGinty. The latter alleges he was hit on the head and robbed of $10.

Haste in shopping
makes waste in food
and in time too

It has always been our family duty to waste as little food as possible—today it is our patriotic duty. And certainly the most effective way to do this is to plan menus and shopping lists together—a week at a time. For this gives you the opportunity to fit one day's leftovers into the next day's menu—to vary meals—to keep meals well-rounded nutritionally—to stick to the budget—and to plan definite times for shopping, thus cutting down on shopping trips. But streamlined shopping schedules take careful planning. And at all times the perishability of different meats and vegetables must be kept in mind.

For meats, you might select shoulder lamb chops, enough ham loaf for two nights, and Swiss steak. If stored in the refrigerator, most meats will keep about a week; cured meats like ham and bacon will keep longer but ground meats, poultry, and fresh fish should be cooked the same day or day after.

For vegetables, you might choose corn, string beans, carrots, tomatoes, cucumbers, green onions, lettuce, and celery. That's not counting the potatoes and onions you'd have on hand already. As soon as you get home, wash the vegetables quickly, dry, and store them in a covered container in the refrigerator. Use green and leafy vegetables that day or the next. Carrots and corn will keep longer.

Now let's say, for example, that you are buying these meats and vegetables on Monday to last until Friday. Here are the dinner menus the Safeway Homemakers' Bureau suggests you might have planned before buying:

MONDAY DINNER

Baked Ham Loaf
Garnished with Canned Spiced Peaches
Scalloped Potatoes
Tossed Vegetable Salad of Torn Lettuce,
Finely Sliced Green Onions, Celery, and Quartered Tomatoes with
