

TRUCK TIRE QUOTA CUT DRASTICALLY BY RATION BOARD

Machines Used in Essential War Effort, Public Health and Safety Only Eligible.

Only trucks engaged in services essential to the war effort or public health and safety will be entitled to be recapped or new tires under a drastic revision of the tire rationing regulations announced today by the Office of Price Administration through Hobart Price, executive secretary of the local board.

The revision, said to be necessitated by increasing evidence that quotas will not provide for all those on present eligibility lists, will cut off from tires all privately operated trucks carrying alcoholic beverages, soft drinks and similar beverages, tobacco products, confections, candy, flowers, toys, novelties, jewelry, furs, radios, phonographs, musical instruments, or other luxury goods, unless the transportation of such things is only incidental to the main service performed by the vehicle.

Follow ODT Advice
Unable to increase quotas because of the rubber shortage, OPA asked the advice of the Office of Defense Transportation as to what reclassifications of motor transport services could be made to effect the necessary reductions and at the same time preserve the most essential operations. OPA has followed the lines of ODT recommendations.

Trucks transporting raw materials, semi-manufactured or finished goods, including farm products and foods, will be recognized as eligible for tires only if the services they perform are essential to the war effort or public health and safety. Also dropped from "List A" eligibility under the same conditions are private carriers furnishing transportation for incidental maintenance services—the cleaning of office buildings is given as an example—or for the purpose of repairing any portable household effects or providing materials or services solely for landscaping or beautification of any construction project or other establishment.

The Grange

Roxy Ann Grange
Roxie Ann Grange Hall will be the meeting place for an evening of recreation Friday, July 31, at 7 p. m., beginning with a pot luck supper.

The Roxie Ann 4-H club is in charge of the entertainment and L. E. Francis, county 4-H leader, will show motion pictures as part of the program.

ASTORIA BOOMS
Astoria, July 29.—(P)—Building, boomed by defense housing construction, brought the value of building permits to $187,209 for the first six months of this year, compared to $181,182 for the corresponding period of 1941.

TRUCKS NEED TIRES
Astoria, Ore., July 29.—(P)—David J. Lewis, Clatsop county rationing administrator, said today that many big logging trucks operating in this area are facing idleness because of the tire shortage.

MANY CARS TAGGED
Seattle, July 29.—(P)—More than 1,750 motorists were given tags here yesterday in the drive against automobiles and trucks not carrying the $5 federal-use stamp.

Halcy, Ore., July 29.—(P)—Frank Gibson reported today that fire destroyed 72,000 pounds of rye grass seed on his farm near here Sunday. The fire started, he said, as he was driving his car through the cut grass.

Beavers are treated with consideration in Montana. A state three-man transplanting crew recently removes them from those areas where they have become a nuisance to fresher fields of endeavor.

Nazis Use Reinforcements

Germany threw reinforcements into their campaign in Southern Russia. Black arrows mark German drives in Don River area (1) one of which had given them footholds on the south bank of the river near Tsimlyansk. White arrowheads indicate Russian attacks in Voronezh region (2), to the north. Germans claimed capture of Bataisk (A), south of Rostov, in direction of Stalingrad-Tikhoretsk railway. Shaded area was under German control.

GOUDY DESIGNING LAST TYPE FACE OF LONG CAREER

Typographic Artisan Has Devoted Over Three Decades to Designing Type.

Los Angeles.—(U.P.)—Frederic William Goudy, hailed as one of the greatest typographic artists of all ages, is now working on his last type design.

White-haired and 77 years old, he envisages the end of his long career. In the three decades and more that he has devoted to his trade, the master craftsman has designed 113 faces of type.

Asked the name of his final contribution to the printing craft, he said, "I'm going to call it the 'Goudy 30,'" explaining that in printing "30" long has been the symbol for "the end."

Goudy yet doesn't know just how his "30" will turn out and described it only as Roman type with a Gothic influence. Judging from his 113 past performances, it should be something of simplicity and beauty.

Designs For Reader
But the ruddy, genial typographer believes he has made enough type faces for one man and has decided to retire at the completion of the "Goudy 30." His theory of type design is that "fine printing demands fine type—a type without mannerisms, its forms distinct, its legibility easy."

Printers credit Goudy's influence with shearing type of the curlicues, scrollwork and flourishes which typographers prior to his time thought necessary. "They should be designed to help the reader, not to display the skill of the designer," he said.

The dean of type designers has a favorite of the hundred odd types he has designed—the face described as "Medieval," inspired by an old manuscript which he Romanized.

"I've never been seduced by the modernistic trend," he relates. "I've always been a traditionalist. I've taken the best of the old designs and improved them to the best of my ability."

Goudy views his contribution to one of the world's oldest crafts from a matter-of-fact standpoint. He speaks with pride, not of his life work, but of his accomplishments during his spare time.

"I've published four books now, and they're all selling."
