

HEALTH WORKERS SUPPLY TEACHERS WITH LATE TEXT

As an aid to improving the health of all school children in Jackson county representatives of the Jackson County Public Health association, sponsors of the annual sale of 'Christmas seals, are distributing to a number of teachers a new teaching unit entitled "Healthful Living Out of Doors." The material was written by Nina B. Lamkin, director, division of public health education, Nebraska State Department of Health.

A very complete educational campaign is being launched this week in the Medford schools through the leadership of Miss Olive Curry, school nurse. The double-barred cross of the national association was distributed to many children yesterday with completion of some endeavor, arranged to acquaint the child with the need to buy Christmas seals.

Because tuberculosis is the greatest health enemy to boys and girls of high school age the campaign is being carried into the high schools with still greater emphasis. Mrs. Elwood Hedberg, president of the Health association, explained yesterday.

NEWBURY WINS IN ESTATE CLOSURE

In the matter of the estate of Lou Walters against Gus Newbury as administrator, heard before Circuit Judge Carl E. Wimberly of Roseburg yesterday, the court handed down a decree in which the estate was ordered closed, the claims of Newbury upheld, and costs and disbursements of the action awarded Newbury.

The action concerned 175,000 shares in the "Siskiyou Copper Mines," inventory appraisal value of $875. The action had its origin in 1901 when Newbury was named as administrator of the Lou Walters estate. At the time Newbury was not licensed to practice law.

Newbury deposited the stock with the county clerk, then John S. Orth, for safekeeping in the county vault, pending settlement of the estate. Newbury testified that the stock had long ago ceased to have any value. Two heirs of the estate asked an accounting, and the matter was transferred from the probate court.

MORE NEWS FROM AFRICA PROMISED

London, Dec. 11.—(U.P.)—The Daily Mail said today that United States headquarters had issued assurances that the flow of war news and pictures from north Africa would be greatly improved in the next few days. The newspaper disclosed a letter from American authorities which said: "We are well aware of the deficiencies of the news and picture service from North Africa as compared with that sent under British control from Egypt. We are doing all we can to remedy the position as speedily as possible."

SCATTER GUNNERS INVITED TO SHOOT NEXT 2 SUNDAYS

Medford Gun club will be open for shooting Sunday unless heavy rains make the grounds too wet for use. Shooters will be able to park cars outside the grounds under present conditions.

The annual Christmas turkey shoot will be held Sunday, December 20, and both shoots are expected to attract a large number of Camp White contestants as the camp has trapshooters from all over the country.

Last Sunday the Medford shooters were guests of the Central Point Sportsmen's club at a turkey shoot. About 25 turkeys were contested for.

Under construction at the Medford Airport is a new skeet shooting field to be used for training purposes for the air force. The government uses skeet as the best practice for marksmen aviators. The field is located near the former location of the Medford skeet trap.

War savings stamps, as usual, will be given as prizes at the shoot on Sunday and at the turkey shoot both war stamps and turkeys will be shot for. Hot lunch and coffee will be served at the shoot Dec. 20. The public is invited to attend either as spectators or as contestants with the same privileges and entrance fees as gun club members enjoy.

"A" APPLICATIONS ACCEPTABLE NOW

The war price and rationing board is now receiving application for "A" mileage gasoline ration books board members stated today. Registration will be received from those who failed to make application at the school houses during November or those who were unable to complete their applications at that time.

Automobile dealers who wish to apply for gasoline for cars in used car lots may also do so at this time through the local rationing board office.

TEACHERS ENLIST IN BOND BUYING

Medford public school teachers are joining the ranks of those in the county in support of the 10 per cent deduction plan from salaries for purchase of war bonds and stamps. It was stated today by the city school superintendent's office. Most of the teachers have signed up for the plan, some taking more than 10 per cent and some less, it was said.

This voluntary plan of purchase is in charge of a group of teachers in each school. The amount of deduction is taken from each month's paycheck and when the money equals a bond, it is purchased and mailed to the buyer by the school clerk. This patriotic project applies not only to the teachers but to all employees of the public school system in Medford.

A group of service station operators were designated recently as those in Jackson county to handle inspection of tires and cars which is required by a federal ruling in connection with nation-wide rationing of gasoline for the conservation of rubber.
