City Official on Swing Shift

Hannibal Pardi, assistant corporation counsel for the city of Seaside, New York, leaves his City Hall office about 3:30 to work the four to midnight swing shift at a nearby war plant. He is a tool-maker, and is shown milling a boring bar for use on induction motors for ships.

New Meeting Place—Fraternal Order of Eagles and auxiliary will meet at the Knights of Pythian hall, Fifth and Grape streets, Thursday at 8 p. m., and each Thursday thereafter until further notice. The change in the meeting place was effected due to the damage done to the Eagles' hall by fire Monday night.

In Hospital—Don Orput, publisher of the Grants Pass Bulletin, left Grants Pass Sunday to enter a Eugene hospital for treatment. Orput is well-known in this city, having been formerly in charge of the community organization for the Federal Security Agency in Oregon and parts of Washington, and later the northwest regional manager of the American Asbestos Co., both of which positions often brought him to Medford on business. Mr. Orput took charge of the paper last month, and he and Mrs. Orput purchased a home in Grants Pass.

"STOCKINGS" GET 3 TOPS
Hollywood, Cal. (U.P.)—Producers of leg art in Hollywood are now paying more attention to the economics of the institution. Make-up artists who paint on stockings during the silk and rayon shortage, equip each pair of stockings with three pairs of tops—also painted on—thereby making one pair of stockings serve throughout the day. The first pair of tops is placed at the level proper for wearing evening dress; the middle level of tops are for wear with street clothes, and the top circle for bathing and sports wear.

DANCERS "RATIONED"
London (U.P.)—Dance partners are "rationed" in some holiday towns in England, where a shortage of men might result in dull evenings for would-be girl dancers. With a proportion of 10 girls to every man, the latter are kept very busy under this rationing system, but they stick to the unwritten rule of giving every girl in their party, or in the immediate vicinity, a dance in turn.

AID SILK CULTURE
Glendale, Cal. (U.P.)—Women war workers at the assembling airplane engines plant of Kinners Motors have developed still another sideline to help win the war. Owing to the presence of mulberry trees in the vicinity of the plant, the women have engaged a professional Chinese sericulturist and during their spare time nurture along the silk-worm eggs through their metamorphic stages until they are hatched and begin producing silk.

FRYING PAN SHORTAGE
San Jose, Cal. (U.P.)—The food problem in Hawaii differs from that in other parts of the war-torn world. They have plenty of food but cannot get frying pans in which to fry the friable edibles. Miss Kathleen Shannon, former cashier of the San Jose Waterworks, has written friends here to rush her three frying pans to prevent the food from going to waste. They are unobtainable there, she states.
