

ALLIES CAN LAND KAYO THIS YEAR IF MOVE RIGHT

Must Concentrate Shipping in Atlantic Says Senate Military Sub-Committee.

By Charles B. Degges
(United Press Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 8. — (U.P.) — The Allies can deliver the decisive blow against Germany this year if they concentrate shipping in the Atlantic and otherwise make the best military use of the 3,000,000 tons of ships they acquired unexpectedly in 1943, a senate military sub-committee reported today.

If vigorously opposed dividing shipping strength equally between the Atlantic and Pacific, and challenged congressional critics who demand more attention for the Pacific area.

Diversion Dangerous
"To divert ships from the European area now," it said, "would choke off our greatest offensive in midstream. It would prolong the war and cost innumerable lives."

The United States has 16,000,000 tons and her Allies 50,000,000 tons, it added, but there are not enough ships to support simultaneous supreme offensives in all theatres. Proper military use of shipping, however, could place the 5,000,000 troops overseas six months ahead of the end of 1944 schedule, the committee said.

Sharply reduced submarine sinkings and record new production gave the Allies this year a "windfall" of 3,000,000 more tons of shipping "than entered into our military planning for 1943," the committee said. In military terms, it explained, that means 9,000,000 extra tons of cargo in one year—enough to equip 1,500,000 more troops in the European theater.

"If these 3,000,000 tons are fully mobilized for military use rather than dissipated on peacetime commerce," the committee said, "and . . . if plans are executed to pack every ship to the last pound and the last cubic foot, our shipping windfall can deliver the decisive blows in Europe this year."

Recommendations
The committee recommended:
1. Concentration of shipping in the Atlantic and avoidance of "spreading too thin" ship sailings to other theatres.

2. Centralization in the war shipping administration of control over shipping all cargo from factory to overseas ports.

3. Halting of efforts to divert shipping space to the transport of non-essential goods in civilian trade.

4. Overhauling WSA's recruitment and training program to assure doubling the number of seamen by next June.

5. Establishment of a centralized system of hiring longshoremen.

6. Greater efficiency in use of cargo space by integrating different types of cargo handled by the army and WSA, and by "realistically" revising the army's formula for supplying overseas troops.

FOUR MEXICANS ABLE TO LEAVE HOSPITAL CARE

Four of the Mexican nationals who were injured in the truck crash Thursday morning which took the life of Rosendo Garcia Arriola were to be released from Sacred Heart hospital today to return to the farm labor supply center at Camp Prescott, leaving 10 others still in the hospital for treatment.

To be released, according to hospital attendants, were Manuel Sanchez, Lilio Acquillar, B. Martinez and T. Hernandez. The physician attending the injured Mexicans said today that none of them were apparently critically injured and that most would be able to return to Camp Prescott in the next few days. They were bruised and shaken up considerably.

The accident occurred in the 1600 block on East Main street. A westbound truck loaded with 37 Mexican pear harvesters and one traveling to the camp to pick up other fruit workers side-swiped each other.

George E. Wilson, 49, driver of the loaded truck and Theodore V. Downing, 17, operator of the empty machine, both claimed in reports to the police that they were not traveling over 35 miles an hour and both said the other truck was on the wrong side of the street.
