8,200 JAPS MOVE TO TULE CENTER

Washington, Oct. 22—(U.P.)—War relocation authority officials disclosed today that 8,200 Japanese were moved early this month to a new segregation center at Tule Lake, Calif., and that by January 1 there will be 10,000 more segregated at that camp.

The Japanese who have been and will be taken to the camp are those found disloyal to the United States among the 90,000 who were ousted from the western defense command area in the first year of war. Some, however, will be children and wives who choose to remain with the member of the family whose segregation is ordered.

EMPLOYERS WARNED TO PAY WITHHOLDING TAX

Portland, Oct. 22 — J. W. Maloney, collector of Internal Revenue, today called to the attention of all employers who are required to withhold income tax from the wages of their employees that the returns of this tax are now due and must be filed with the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, Portland, Oregon, not later than October 31, 1945.

Mr. Maloney said that unusually severe penalties are imposed under this new act for any failure to file the return in time to reach the Collector's office within the time specified above.

COFFEE STAMP SURPLUS

San Francisco, Oct. 22.—(U.P.)—The regional office of Price Administration today assured western coffee drinkers that despite the appearance of a coffee stamp in war ration book four, coffee supplies were ample and probably will never be rationed again.

BRITISH CAPTURED London, Oct. 22—(U.P.)—The German radio said today that a British reconnaissance party landed on the Aegean island of Kalymnos, seven miles north of Cos Island, and was captured immediately.

War Surpluses and Civilian Goods

Babson Says Excess Army and Navy Supplies May Present a Problem.

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 22—At the end of World War I the Government held a bag containing $5,000,000,000 worth of goods of every kind and description. We all remember the so-called "Army and Navy Stores" which for more than twenty years disposed of a portion of these goods. Undoubtedly they were a nuisance to old-line established retail stores. These Army and Navy stores seemed to have a never-ending inventory.

War End to Bring Supplies Problem

The great bulk of the $5,000,000,000 surplus was bought up by mail-order houses and speculators at private sales or at auctions. Through catalogues and low-price stores these goods were then re-sold to the general public at considerably less than retail prices for similar goods. It took from one war to another to clean out Army and Navy inventories of these materials. Few, if any, of them were adapted to the needs of World War II. Probably little of the surplus which remains at the end of this war will be retained by the Army and Navy.

Hence, the Government will be faced with another great problem of disposal. World War I excess supplies brought about 35 cents on the dollar cost. I should judge that the government will take another loss and this time a greater loss because of the larger quantity involved. Such losses, however, are all a legitimate charge against the cost of running a war. Washington should not be criticized for disposing of these goods at cut rates. However, steps should be taken to protect existing retailers from unfair competition.

Vast Goods Store To Be Liquidated

It is estimated that when World War II ends the surplus goods and materials owned by the Army and Navy will have a value of at least five times that of the "odds and ends" which existed at the close of World War I. This means some $25,000,000,000 worth of items. Consumers, wholesalers, jobbers, manufacturers, mail-order houses and retailers are all vitally concerned in this. To some groups it means good business. To others, and particularly to retailers, the effect may be bad. Obviously, these materials should not be dumped upon the market hastily. Legislation is already proposed.

In time of war, as we know it today, the Army and Navy buy and use practically every kind of material that is necessary to civilian life. This first brings about shortages in consumers' goods but in turn surpluses are very apt to result. My own suggestion to relieve the situation as it continues to develop is to include these surplus goods under Lend-Lease and after the war to get rid of the balance through direct foreign sales. This would leave our domestic retail outlets free from unfair competition and introduce some of our foreign goods at extremely low costs to certain nations to which the war may not have brought them.

CAT ENTERS TRIAL OF COUNT ALFRED

Nassau, Bahamas, Oct. 22—(U.P.)—As in good mystery story, a Maltese cat made an important entrance into the Sir Harry Oakes murder case today, when Count Alfred de Marigny's written denial of the murder of his father-in-law was read in supreme court.

Through the mention of the cat in the defendant's signed statement to police, Defense Attorney Godfrey W. Higgs indicated with his questioning today that the cat will figure prominently in the effort to establish an alibi for the young French nobleman, who is charged with the murder.

THE GRANGE

Griffin Creek Grange opened Tuesday evening with a basket dinner enjoyed by about 50 grangers and friends. An interesting program followed.

Mrs. Olive Floyd and Mrs. Louise Brockaway of Jacksonville grange were visitors. Mrs. Floyd talked on the war fund drive. Mrs. Jessie Minear was appointed chairman of this drive with several helpers.

Harold Tolle, chairman of the bond drive reported some $3000 worth of bonds bought. Plans are being made for a Sadie Hawkins party and pie social for grangers and invited guests on Saturday evening, November 6.

At the last meeting of the H. E. C. the ladies painted the tables and benches.

NEW SNOW CORKS PARK ENTRANCES

Additional snow has blocked the Crater Lake National park road from Union Creek to the Annie Spring junction according to E. P. Leavitt, park superintendent, who stated that more than a foot of snow has fallen. Mr. Leavitt announced yesterday that all but the west and south entrances to the park, through highway No. 62, were closed, but additional snow since that announcement has resulted in the closing of these roads also.

No information was available as to whether the Diamond Lake was open or not.
