

SUSAN OF THE WAVES

by ALLEN EPPES

Susan Esterbrook, New York glamour girl, joins the Waves and goes to a New England training center. She is in love with Harvey Rogers, Army flier, and has promised to wait for him until the end of the war. Pierre Dupre, a Fighting Frenchman, another of Susan's suitors. He has been threatened by a group of Nazi agents—Carl Cooper, his friend Hermann, and a woman known as Madame Lecouvreur—who are interested in a Long Island war plant owned by Susan's father. They have told Pierre that, if he doesn't get Susan to show him through the plant, harm will come to his relatives in France. He is badly worried, but doesn't want to approach the authorities until he has some evidence to have the group arrested. When Susan comes home on furlough, Carl tries to make Pierre arrange for the trip to the factory, but Susan has no time to give Pierre the answer. She promises, however, to see Pierre on her next furlough.

CHAPTER XXV
CARL COOPER, Hermann and Madame Lecouvreur were in conference in Madame's apartment. It was a week or so after Susan had gone back to the Wave training center.

"But I don't like the idea," Madame was saying, "of keeping explosives in my home. It's too dangerous."

"Not if they're handled right," said Carl. "And all the spare room of yours makes an excellent workshop."

"But suppose an accident happens?"

"No accidents will happen," said Carl.

"Certainly not," said Hermann. "Carl knows his chemistry."

"Nevertheless, Madame looked worried. 'Why must we keep waiting for Pierre to get into the factory with the Esterbrook girl?'" she asked. "I dislike all the suspense. If we're to do the damage, let's go ahead with it. Carl, why couldn't you or I get the girl to take us on a visit to the factory? We both know her."

"Impossible," Carl replied. "I know her only casually, and you have met her only once. Pierre is a close friend. It will be the most natural thing in the world for her to grant his request to see the factory."

MADAME frowned, then had another thought. "Won't the guards at the gate search him?"

"I doubt it—they're not apt to search any one with Miss Esterbrook," said Carl. "If they do, they will merely find several fountain pens on him."

"Fountain pens?" said Madame. "Why?"

"I'll go into that later," Hermann said. "You have your own work laid out for you, so stop worrying about anything else. Each day you are to purchase all the local newspapers, and search them for any item about the Esterbrook girl coming home."

"Then in case Pierre doesn't tell us when she is coming to town, or if she is already in town," said Carl, "we'll be posted. When we know she's here, we'll get Pierre, and see that he carries out our plans."

"Won't he be suspected—after something happens to the factory?" asked Madame.

CORPORAL WARNER FINDS OREGONIANS IN WAR THEATER

A sequel to the incident of Furman (Brick) Blaylock finding two copies of the Mail-Tribune in Sicily while engaged in the Sicilian campaign last summer, has been written by Cpl. Gordon Warner, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Warner of 519 South Oakdale. Cpl. Warner has written to say that he ran into Brick, the first Oregonian he had talked to in months, and then a few days later received a copy of the Mail-Tribune with a story about Brick.

Cpl. Warner, whose exact whereabouts in the European war theater are not known, wrote a V-mail letter dated Sept. 28, saying:

"I'm still convinced that this old world is pretty small and that unusual coincidences still happen. I guess you know I'm the only Oregonian in our company and haven't seen anyone from home since I ran into Kenny Watson on 42nd and Broadway that time (Sept. of 1942 in New York). I was around a different outfit the other day and a fellow told me they had a chap from Medford. I looked him up and I found it was Brick Blaylock. We had a good visit and talked over the home town. Today I was reading some newspapers and came upon an article about Brick, in which they told of a letter from him. It seems he found two copies of the Medford paper and wrote the newspaper about how glad he was to see them. I am to see him again tonight and I imagine he will be more surprised to have me show him this article about himself than he was to find the copies in Sicily. It was peculiar to run into him and then see this article only a day or two later. 'Haven't seen anything of Adolf yet, but as I say, the world is small and I may find the old devil yet.'"

In Signal Corps
Young Warner, in the signal corps, was in North Africa during the campaign there. The Kenny Watson mentioned in the letter is a former Medford postman now in the army and will be remembered by many local residents.

Both Cpl. Warner and young Blaylock attended Medford schools, the latter moving to Marshfield with his parents a few years before the war began.

THE GRANGE

Roxy Ann Grange
Roxy Ann Grange met in regular session Friday.

Geraldine Thomas was obligated in the first and second degrees.

Farm problems and subsidies were reported on and discussed. Booster night was voted to be held November 13. Vera Thomas was appointed program chairman with the H. E. C. club having charge of the eats.

The evening of our first November regular meeting all ladies are asked to bring sandwiches for the refreshments.

Frank Hansen gave an amusing reading.

Refreshments were served by the John Dunlap and Chas. Driskill families.

Closing time for Sunday Too Late to classify. $3.30 Saturday afternoon—Please remember.

Dairy Payments Details Given

Here are more details on the payments to be made to dairymen. Last week, we had only the bare outlines of the program, enough to know that a dairy payment had been authorized in order to help offset the high cost of dairy feed. Today, there's more to tell. First of all—who is entitled to the payment? The answer to that one is—every dairymen who sells whole milk, cream, home-made butter, or sour cream.

As to the rate of payment, that varies from place to place. The rates were figured by taking several things into consideration; such as the increase in the price of milk since the 1938-1940 average. Also the increases in the price of dairy feed since September, 1942, and the average proportion of dairy feed purchased were figured in. For Jackson county the rate of payment will be 45 cents per hundredweight for whole milk and five cents a pound for butterfat.

For butter as butter, the payment is 80 per cent of the butterfat rate, and for creams sold as such, 20 per cent of butterfat rate applies.

In Jackson county applications will be received for October at the A.A.A. office, third floor, courthouse, beginning November 5. Payments will be made by sight draft on the Commodity Credit Corporation and will be figured on the basis of dairy sales for which farm-dairy will submit receipts or other proof of actual sales. Forms for application and instructions for handling the payments have been received by the A.A.A. office.

This program is quite simple, necessitating only the sales slips and a trip to the A.A.A. office. Monthly sales on which the subsidy payment will be less than $1.00, no payment will be made.

Farm Cost Trends Follow War No. 1

Information on farm costs price trends assembled by L. R. Breithaupt, extension economist at Oregon State college, indicate: that farm cost trends are following somewhat the pattern of World War I. In that war the cost increase overtook the rise in prices for farm products and became depressing in the long run.

Index of prices received by farmers advanced one point in the country as a whole from mid-May to mid-July. In that same period the index of prices paid for commodities bought by farmers advanced two points. Farm wage rates also advanced very sharply during that period.
