

Dorothy McGuire and Robert Taylor In "Claudia" On Craterian Bill

INA CLAIRE HAS ROLE IN BRIGHT NEW SCREEN HIT

Reginald Gardiner and Olga Baclanova Appear in Support of Stars.

Woven around the talents of one of the screen's most unusual and unpredictable newcomers, Dorothy McGuire, the equally unusual film "Claudia" opens today at the Craterian for a three-day run, backed by flattering advance notices and popular acclaim.

An unconventional plot takes lovely Miss McGuire through the flighty ten age into maturity with a fast moving, clever succession of sequences which result in good solid entertainment. Cleverly handling the role of "Claudia's" husband, Robert Taylor fits well into the picture's story as the ever-baffled mate of the famously erratic Claudia.

Based on the best selling book of the same name and the legitimate stage show which quickly followed its publication, the story of "Claudia" is immensely added to by the effective, talented acting of its excellent supporting cast. Ina Claire takes the part of Claudia's patient mother, while subordinate parts are expertly handled by Reginald Gardiner and Olga Baclanova.

Hit Opening Today

Fun and mystery is the all-ways-popular prescription for a good, two-feature movie program such as that starting today at the Rialto. Headed by what is heralded as the "surprise package of 1943" today's bill leads off with "The Youngest Profession" starring Virginia Weidler, Edward Arnold and John Carroll. Produced by one of Hollywood's largest studios, the film features a big parade of the biggest name stars in the business with plenty of fun, song and dance thrown in.

The other half of the twin-bill is murder mystery action with John Loder, Warren Douglas and Ruth Ford in "Murder on the Waterfront." Featuring tense, dramatic action the pic-

STEEL WAGE PARLEY
New York, Dec. 11. — (U.P.) — The drive for higher wages in the steel industry was stepped up this week when it was announced that officials of the United States Steel corporation and the United Steel Workers of America will meet Dec. 14 to initiate negotiations for a new contract.

WAVES RECRUITER HERE ALL WEEK

Recent changes in the WAVES program which have increased opportunities in this women's service for many more young women, will be outlined for the assistance of applicants in the Medford area by Ensign Barbara Sadler all this week at the Medford U. S. navy recruiting substation in the U. S. post office. It was announced here Saturday by Recruiting Specialist Herbert Crain in charge of the Medford U. S. navy recruiting substation which handles WAVES applications in this area. Ensign Sadler will be on duty here from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. to assist young women in learning more about their opportunities in the WAVES. For women who work through the day, night appointments can be made by calling or writing the Medford U. S. navy recruiting substation.

During the week that Ensign Sadler will be in the Medford recruiting substation area, she will spend Wednesday in Grants Pass at the Chamber of Commerce and Thursday in Ashland at the Lithia hotel, from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. with night interviews available.

FIVE SUBMARINES OF GERMANS LOST IN MAJOR BATTLE

London, Dec. 11.—(U.P.)—British warships and United States, British and Canadian bombers, driving home the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin Tehran pledge to destroy Nazi seapower, have sunk five German submarines and damaged three more in a two-day North Atlantic battle which decisively defeated a "major" enemy attack upon allied shipping, the air ministry and admiralty disclosed tonight.

More than 99 per cent of the merchant ships under escort reached harbor safely, the two ministries announced in a communique, and the U-boats could at no time reach two valuable convoys which were their targets for a concentrated attack.

None of the warships was damaged or suffered casualties. Two coastal command aircraft were forced down at sea and another damaged. But surface vessels picked up the majority of all crews. The airmen suffered casualties.

Today's announcement ran to 11 the number of Nazi U-boat sinkings revealed here in six days. Last Sunday the air ministry said that RAF and RCAF coastal command planes and U. S. naval aircraft recently sank six submarines in an eight-day running fight in the North Atlantic. Naval sources said the actions covered in the two announcements were not the same.
