BRITISH PATROL SURPRISES NAZIS IN NIGHT FORAY

5th Army Group Penetrates Enemy Lines—Kills or Wounds 40—All Return.

By Reynolds Packard
(United Press Correspondent)

With Fifth Army, Dec. 17.—(U.P.)—A strong British patrol crossed the Garigliano river at a twin bridge northwest of Mount Magliore during the night, killed or wounded 40 Germans, and came back with one man wounded, their only casualty.

The patrol made the crossing with the stealth of American Indian warriors, keeping in the shadows cast by a brilliant moon and bypassing German sentinels.

At each farmhouse in which were sleeping Germans, the British left behind a number of men armed with grenades and Tommy guns.

All At Once
After manning nearly a dozen houses, the patrol let go with gun and grenade, killing most of the Germans and mowing down those who tried to flee.

The patrol first crossed the twin bridge silently, one by one, crawling to take advantage of the shadows. The first group posted at a farmhouse had nearly half an hour to wait before the pre-arranged zero hour when "all hell broke loose."

Taken by surprise, the Germans nevertheless tried to cut off the patrol by sending guards to the bridge. But the British fought their way back across it in hand-to-hand clashes.

TYPE A FLU VIRUS
CAUSES EPIDEMIC

San Francisco, Dec. 17.—(U.P.) Type A influenza virus, isolated from specimens of California and Oregon patients and corresponding to the virus found elsewhere in America during the present influenza epidemic, indicate the disease has spread from the east to the Pacific coast, the state department of health announced today.

"Since type A influenza virus was first isolated in 1933, all outbreaks found to be due to this agent have been uniformly mild," Dr. Wilton L. Halverson, director of the department, said.

He said type A virus was responsible for the California influenza epidemic of December, 1940, and said that at that time temperatures rarely rose above 102 degrees. The illness lasted only a few days and there were few deaths, he said.

NAZIS ADMIT GUILT
Kharkov, Dec. 17.—(U.P.)—Three members of the German army pleaded guilty before a Russian military court today to complicity in the mass murder of thousands of Soviet civilians and war prisoners during the Nazi occupation of Kharkov.

Children Will Give Christmas Program At Zion Lutheran

Children of the Sunday school of Zion Lutheran church will hold their annual Christmas program Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

Highlighting the service will be a pageant presented by the senior department in which the following will take part: The reader, Joan Blunkall; an angel, Nancy Swen; Joseph, Darrel Cachelin; Mary, Arlene Rusk; wise men, Merton Ball, Roger Hogstrom and Robert Gilman; sign bearers, Joy, Gay Cachelin; Hope, Alberta Puhl; Faith, Frank Lagesen; Love, Phyllis Hannaford; Peace, Henry Stevens.

Junior department in the nursery and beginners grades will give a group recitation "Around the Manger" and sing "Away in a Manger."

Others taking part will be Fidelia Boone, Dick Hanson and Colleen Lee, who will lead in prayer; Bill Canon, who will present the recitation "Christmas Good News"; Duane Peterson and Darlene Neeley who will give the reading, "Our Christmas," and Agnes Lagesen and Norman Love who will present the recitation, "O Thou by a Star Didst Guide." Traditional Christmas carols will be sung and at the conclusion of the service gifts will be presented to all children present.

The general public is cordially invited to attend the service.

88-STORY FALL
New York, Dec. 17.—(U.P.)—An unidentified man leaped 1,000 feet from the 88th floor observance platform of the Empire State building into 33rd street today and was killed instantly. His body narrowly missed pedestrians in the street crowded with Christmas shoppers.

The Eastern Oregon State Tuberculosis Hospital located at The Dalles was opened in 1929 and has accommodations for 200 patients.
