STEAK'S A STEAK
Salem, Mass. (U.P.) — Under wartime conditions, it takes more than a three-alarm fire to scare hungry diners away from a steak dinner. As patrons of Oscars Grill hustled into the street to escape flames, three guests were seen carrying their half-eaten steaks and cutlery to a nearby automobile, where they finished the meal.

Every conceivable kind of war material is being transported by rail today in unprecedented quantities throughout the country, comprising more than 65 per cent of all business moving in the express service, according to the Railway Express Agency, Inc.

SILVER STAR AND BRONZE MEDAL TO LIEUT. COL. FRIES

The Silver Star for gallantry in action and the Bronze Medal for meritorious service have been awarded to Lt. Col. Stuart G. Fries of Washington, D. C., the nephew of Katie M. Grieve of Prospect and Mrs. O. C. Purkayle of 308 North Holly street.

The general orders for the decorations were issued by command of Maj. Gen. Charles H. Gerhardt, commander of the 29th Infantry Division in France and former commander of the 1st Infantry Division when it was being trained at Camp White. They were sent to Mrs. Grieve by her brother, Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, retired, of Washington, D. C., father of Col. Fries.

The order describing the action for which Col. Fries was awarded the Silver Star said: "For gallantry in action on June 20, 1944, in Normandy, France. Lt. Col. Fries did without personal regard for his own safety, continuously expose himself to enemy machine gun, rifle and mortar fire as he directed the action of a company of medium tanks as they supported an attack by a battalion of infantry in the vicinity of . . .

"Though unmounted and completely exposed to enemy fire at short ranges, Lt. Col. Fries directed the tanks so as to continue the attack, and by his conduct and bearing under extreme fire, inspired those around him and reflected great credit upon the military service."

The order of the Bronze Medal read as follows: "For meritorious achievement as battalion commander from June 6, 1944, to July 10, 1944, in Normandy, France."

Lt. Col. Fries, commander of a tank battalion, also received a commendation from Maj. Gen. L. T. Gero for "the splendid support given to the infantry elements of the 29th and 1st Infantry Divisions in the capture of beachhead objectives" by the tank battalion.

Lt. Col. Fries has never resided in Medford.

A few of the peace shares managed to register small net gains, although recently firm utilities were depressed. Rails and steels, leaders of the so-called war issues, were principal losers.
