

GAY COMEDY TOPS CRATERIAN'S NEW SUNDAY PROGRAM

Jack Carson and Jane Wyman In "Make Your Own Bed" Today.

With its theme both timely and funny, "Make Your Own Bed," comes to the Craterian theater today. The subject is the shortage of domestic help so much in evidence since the start of the war.

Heading the brilliant array of talent is the triumvirate of fresh and energetic comedians—namely, Jack Carson, Jane Wyman and Irene Manning.

Irene Dunne in Wednesday Hit

Opening Wednesday at the Craterian, is "The White Cliffs of Dover," starring Dunne with Alan Marshall, Frank Morgan, Roddy McDowall, Van Johnson and C. Aubrey Smith. The film plays through Saturday night.

Jack Carson plays the role of an ineffectual detective with a driving desire for self-support so it is hardly surprising to find him donning a butler's uniform to accomplish this end. His exasperated and sorely tried sweetheart is Jane Wyman. And Irene Manning, lovely singing star of "The Desert Song," comes into her own as a full-fledged comedienne.

A superlative supporting cast includes Alan Hale as Mr. Whittle, Irene Manning's long-suffering husband who can't be blamed for not quite understanding his dizzy mate; George Tobias as Boris Murphy, neighbor extraordinary with a flair for victory gardens and squirts; and Robert Shayne as Carson's thoroughly "ex" ex-boss.

A twin "horror" bill is featured at the Rialto, headed by "Lady and the Monster" and "Weird Woman."

MEDFORD WACS IN LONDON MEETING

A meeting in London between Pfc. Roberta Ivanhoe and Lt. Betty Vilm, both of Medford, is described in a letter which Pfc. Ivanhoe recently wrote to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bates of 32 Newtown street. Pfc. Ivanhoe made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Bates for many years.

"Now here is a timely bit of news," Pfc. Ivanhoe wrote. "Yesterday, as I was walking down Berkley street, minding my own business, who would I bump into but Betty Vilm. She looks so good and I was so thrilled to see her again. She didn't even know I had enlisted. We are hoping to get together some time soon for lunch. It was so good to see someone from home. She is the first one I have seen from Medford since I have been in this army. If you can get a chance to call Betty's mother, tell her that Betty is having the time of her life over here, and looks just grand. I don't think she has been here very long."

Pfc. Ivanhoe has been in the WAC about a year.

MAIL DATES FOR YULE GIFTS FOR SERVICE PEOPLE

With mailing dates for Christmas packages for servicemen and women overseas set from September 15 to October 15 this year, the Oregon State College Extension Service is offering a special service to help friends and relatives in packing food articles, according to Miss Marjorie Farrell, Jackson county home demonstration agent.

Beginning Tuesday, September 5, any non-perishable food article may be packed in tin cans and will be inspected and sealed at the Extension Service office in the courthouse. Sealing articles in tin cans will help prevent spoilage or drying out of the product, and insure against breakage in handling of packages during shipment.

Miss Farrell lists the following procedure for those interested in this service.

1. No 2½ tin cans for sealing are available at cost at the Extension Service office in the courthouse.

matches, perishable articles or soft candles. The parcel is limited to five pounds, 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined.

Miss Farrell recommends that fruit cakes be baked in a No. 2½ can so they will fit properly into the available container.

For suggestions and recipes suitable for overseas shipment a mimeograph on Food and Mailing is available free of charge at the extension office, or telephone 3453.
