Your Health and Its Care

YEAST AND PEANUT BUTTER

Dried brewer's yeast (not yeast used in baking) ordinarily comes in a powder form. It is far richer than the live yeast used for leavening, and it does not cause fermentation internally, as live yeast does.

Dried yeast, the fermentative action of which has been killed by heat, is richer in most of the known components or factors of the vitamin B complex, particularly B1 (thiamin), B2 (or riboflavin) and nicotinic acid (niacin, anti-pellagra factor) than any natural food.

In sections of the south where pellagra has been prevalent, the health authorities have encouraged the sale of dried yeast powder in bulk by groceries and other stores so that people could buy it and consume fair quantities of it every day to prevent or cure early or mild pellagra.

As Dr. Jas. S. McEster points out, in his book "Nutrition and Health and Disease" (Saunders, '39), yeast if it is to be effective, must be taken in what may be regarded as enormous quantities. "We have found it of advantage to give 180 to 270 Gm. (one-half pound, more or less) of powdered brewers' yeast pellagrins. This is best tolerated when in the case of severely ill when given in iced milk or egg nog in doses of about 20 Gm. (rounded tablespoonful) each."

Fresh liquid brewer's yeast is perfectly good for leavening dough if it is procured from the brewery at least twice a week and kept refrigerated until it is to be used. Applied comfortably warm, as a poultice—gauze pads copiously saturated with the fresh liquid yeast, changed twice daily, it is an excellent remedy for old indolent varicose ulcers or the leg; it stimulates the healing process and cleans up the ulcer. The applications should be continued.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS
Dangers of Sulfa Drugs
Recently you referred to the dangers in taking sulfa drugs. I have been taking sulfa (something or other) as prescribed by a physician for several months.

Answer—Little danger if you are constantly under your physician's observation. People taking sulfa drugs should not drive cars or keep at any work involving responsibility. They should not sign contracts or make any serious decisions involving their affairs. Sulfa drugs sometimes seriously impair the faculties for a while. One taking a sulfa drug should remain quiet, if not in bed, for a week after the drug has been discontinued.

They never get me down. I have been taking sulfa for a long time. For every earper who complains I'll wager there are a thousand readers who have a warm spot in their hearts for Q. Dr. Brady—who I observed when I visited your hospital, never one day last winter. Is kidding us about being old.

Answer—They never get me down, just clutching wildly at the ropes occasionally. Come to think of it, the howling green contributes much toward keeping me in there looking like Hay Fever.

They seem to be increasing vitamin C for hay fever this year. I have been taking 100 mg. ascorbic acid (pure vitamin C) tablets since the first of June—I feel it is not doing, the trick.

Answer—Send stamped envelope bearing your address, for pamphlet on Hay Fever. If you want also the pamphlet "Relief for Allergy" inclose ten cents in coin.

DRESSING QUOTA OF 210,000 MADE FOR THIS COUNTRY

The last bag of surgical dressings has been placed in the surgical dressing thermometer in Lantis & Johnson's window, indicating that the quota of 210,000 surgical dressings has been completed, reports Mrs. Gus Newberry, county chairwoman of surgical dressing.

This is a large quota to be made in three months, and I think the Red Cross workers of Jackson county, which also include the workers of the units of Ashland, Phoenix, Jacksonville, Central Point, Eagle Point, and Gold Hill reserve some word of appreciation for the many hours they have put in; and while our work is not over, yet we do feel that they have earned a short rest.

The workroom in the court house will be closed until the 19th of September all units, too, will be taking the two weeks vacation.

For their loyal support in this work the chairwoman wants to thank all the women and four men workers, who by the way have made very dressings and have been very regular in their attendance at the night classes. I want also to thank Lantis & Johnson for permitting us to use their window for our thermometer.

The next quota is now in the workroom ready for us to start on after our vacation.
