SKIM MILK AND BUTTERMILK

In the article about vitamin A in your Daily Diet recently I said:

"Not only whole milk, but also cream, skim milk and butter milk (genuine) and skim milk (too often regarded as unfit for human nutrition) are good food sources of vitamin A."

The vice-chairman of the food and nutrition committee of a county defense council protests that there is no evidence to substantiate such a statement. He says that "according to Sherman's Chemistry of Food and Nutrition" buttermilk contains absolutely no vitamin A and skim milk only an insignificant amount."

It may be that Prof. Sherman has changed his mind about it since he revised his textbook for the fifth edition (1937), but I'll settle for the compromise that both items, skimmed (not separator) milk and genuine buttermilk (not the concoction dairy firms often sell under that name) contain some vitamin A, although of course most of the vitamin A in milk is in the butter fat and there is only 0.3% of the fat left in skim milk (compared with 4.0% in fresh milk), only 0.5% left in genuine buttermilk.

As one recognized authority (Prof. Mary S. Rose, The Foundations of Nutrition, Macmillan, '38) states it:

"Milk stands preeminent among food materials as a source of vitamin A, which is not all removed with the butter fat, skim milk containing an appreciable amount."

This same young man who, as vice-chairman of a county defense council's committee on

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS
What foods contain fluorine or fluoride? How much should one consume daily to prevent dental caries? (Mrs. S. H.)

Answer—Wait for me. I have you been reading a miracle story in some magazine? Nobody knows as yet how much fluorine is good or bad for what. As soon as we have fairly sound knowledge of the effect of fluorine I'll help on it here, you may rest assured.

Low Blood Sugar
What is the difference between hypoglycemia and diabetes? Symptoms of spells sound alike. (S. B.)

Answer—Hypoglycemia means less than the normal amount of sugar (glucose) in the blood. In diabetes there is more than the normal amount of sugar in the blood.

Clippings
Please send me the information as per clippings enclosed.

Answer—If clippings were included they were lost from your letter. Please do not send clippings—wait four time and ours. Ask for what you want and you will receive it without delay. (Copyright 1944, John F. Dille Co.)

CHRISTMAS SEALS OBTAINABLE FOR OVERSEAS GIFTS

Christmas packages and letters going to service men overseas may carry the cheery Christmas seal that fights tuberculosis. Mrs. Elwood Hedberg, president of the Jackson County Public Health association, announced yesterday. The early deadline set by the postmaster general for mailing Christmas packages overseas will not prevent use of the seals, she stated, for they are already available for such purposes at the Jackson County Health department in the court house.

The regular seal sale will not open, generally, she pointed out, until November 20. The many requests from mothers, who wished their sons to know that they are carrying on the home fight for good health, are responsible for these plans for early dissemination of seals, which have so long financed the battle against tuberculosis, are a symbol of good health in many lands abroad, as well as here. Each letter and package carrying a seal will be a reminder to many that Americans at home are carrying on the good fight to assure returning service men a healthier world in which to live at peace. Anyone wishing the Christmas seals now, is asked to apply at the Health department. Mrs. Hedberg yesterday expressed the hope that they will appear on all packages going overseas from Jackson county. Mrs. Ruth Bauer is county chairman of the annual Christmas seal sale and is making extensive plans for opening of the general campaign.

Telephone Company Will Give $135,000

N. R. Powley, president of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, has announced that directors of the company have approved a contribution this year of $85,000 to the National War Fund in addition to regular Community Chest contributions approximating $50,000 annually, making the aggregate sum $135,000, according to word received by R. B. Hammond, manager here.

Allocations of the National War Fund contribution, based on War Fund quotas, now are being computed for the counties of the five states in which the company operates, and the local contribution will be announced shortly, Hammond said.

Studies in a medieval university were grouped under the four faculties of arts, theology, law and medicine.

TWO BEARS KILLED IN MOUNT ASHLAND AREA

Ashland, Sept. 16 — L. L. Lewis, government hunter from Central Point, returned from the Mount Ashland area yesterday where he has been hunting bear for the past several days. Lewis stated that he was hunting bear which had reportedly been killing sheep at Austin Barron's sheep camp near Mt. Ashland.

In three nights hunting Lewis shot two bears. Lewis said also that it has been reported that bear have been molesting cattle and sheep in the Wagner Butte area.
