DRESSMAKERS REQUIRED TO FILE PRICE LISTS
Dressmakers who work at home and who receive seventy-five dollars or more per month for their work are required to file their prices with the local OPA Board, the local board announced today.

If they were doing this work in March, 1942, they should file the prices charged on that date. If they were not doing business at that time then they should file prices of a similar establishment. In the matter of alterations that no matter how small the intake of revenue the prices for these services must be filed.

GRAVE ROBBERS MOLEST COLLABORATOR'S COFFIN
Rome, Oct. 3.—(UP)—Grave robbers attempted last night to dig up and steal the body of Pietro Caruso, former police chief of Rome who was executed recently as a fascist criminal, but were frightened away by scrapmen just as their shovels scratched the coffin.

The ghouls escaped, leaving behind their shovels and a lantern, upon which fingerprints were discovered.

California tuna canners had a record pack of 509,002 cases in the first third of 1944, 65 per cent better than last year's 293,598 cases, but smaller than the 1940 pack of 746,808 cases, due to a reduction in the size of the fleet when fishing boats were requisitioned for war service.

TOWNSEND EDITOR SPEAKS TO 225 ON PENSION EFFORT

Sherman J. Bainbridge, editor of the Townsend National Weekly, spoke to an audience of about 225, mostly elderly folk in the high school auditorium last night. His talk was intended chiefly to refute arguments directed against the so-called "60 at 60" pension plan, which he termed "insurance against want", and which he said was nearing victory.

He was introduced by Glenn Wilson, organizer for the Townsend movement from Iowa. Mr. Wilson said that right now things looked favorable for the pension movement, but that it could expect to find big guns trained on it before long. Mr. Wilson was introduced by chairman Lea Parker of Medford. Mayor Clarence Meeker was present, and welcomed the speakers on behalf of the city of Medford.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Eve Prentice's accordion band, playing several numbers. Mrs. Effie Kurtz sang three songs for the gathering, and a beautiful bouquet of flowers was placed on the stage by Mrs. Nellie Bowles.
