Still Need Waves

The program for enlisted WAVES has not been closed, and the need for WAVES is still urgent. It is emphasized by Herb Crain of the Medford Navy recruiting station. The statement was issued to overcome confusing and conflicting reports about the WAVES closing, about the WAVES quota being filled, about changes in the WAVES program and about general curtailment of all WAVES recruiting activity.

ARMY NIPS DUKE, NAVY TIPS PENN BY BIG MARGINS

New York, Oct. 28.—(U.P.)—An enraged army football team played to a standstill as it trailed through the first half, let go with all its vaunted power to smash the rugged Blue Devils of Duke University, 27 to 7, today.

Battered down by the fighting Duke line and holding the short end of a 7-6 count at the half, the Cadets sent their hard-hitting backs roaring through the Blue Devils for three second half touchdowns which turned a close game into a rout before 59,000 fans at the Polo grounds.

It was the first real test of Army's heralded power after four easy victories, and the Cadets, after that brief first-half scare, weren't found wanting.

Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—(U.P.)—Navy's dormant football power exploded before 73,000 fans at Franklin Field today and a youthful Penn team, victorious in its three previous games, crumbled under a 26 to 0 score.

A sellout crowd saw the pent-up middies, an in-and-out team all season, finally cash in on their reserve power.

The overall picture of the game was one of a power-packed navy squad scoring a touchdown six minutes after the game opened, wearing down Penn's good first team and then plowing through for a second touchdown in the third and adding two more in the final quarter.

Penn showed signs of wilting shortly after a goal line stand on the one-yard line early in the second period and wound up with a 29-yard rushing deficit.
