Recommendations On Men

A week ago we gave our recommendations on measures. We now present our recommendations on men, as follows:

NATIONAL TICKET
President and Vice President
Dewey and Bricker (12)

STATE TICKET
U. S. Senate, short term
Guy Cordon, incumbent (16)

U. S. Senate, long term
Wayne Morse (18)

Representative in Congress
Harris Ellsworth, incumbent (21)

State Treasurer
Leslie M. Scott (23)

For Attorney General
George Neuner, incumbent (24)

State Representatives
Frank J. Van Dyke (27)
O. H. Bengtson (26)

There is only one thing we don't like about the above list,—they are all Republicans. However that is the way our preferences came out this year,—the first time in the paper's history.

We grant the quality varies considerably but putting:

Dewey versus Roosevelt,
Bricker versus Truman,
Cordon versus Mahoney,
Morse versus Smith,
Ellsworth versus Dover,
Scott versus Lambert,
Neuner versus Spaulding,
(Van Dyke and Bengtson are unopposed.)

Our choice came out in each case—the first named. In some selections the decision was a close one, in others a runaway for the G.O.P., but in each and every case, considering all phases of the matter, the Republican candidate in our judgment had the better of it.

And so, the active campaign ends today, as far as this paper is concerned, and our long-suffering readers are no more relieved than we are.

Tomorrow is wash-day and the next day the grand quadrennial battle of ballots begins—from then on it is "Vox Populi Vox Dei" as far as we are concerned.

There have been so many requests for a reprinting of the Recommendations on Measures of a week ago, and also for a complete list of the New Deal alphabetical bureaus, offered to readers by mail, some time ago that both are produced below:

New Deal Bureaucracy

A short time ago we wrote an editorial entitled "Don't Look Back" regarding President Roosevelt's broken campaign promises, particularly the promises he made in 1932, that if elected he would reduce the number of federal bureaus which, he said, the Hoover administration had saddled onto the long-suffering electorate.

In naming the alphabetical bureaus of the New Deal showing this promise had not been kept, we only gave the letters not the titles because of lack of space. Since then there have been so many requests, for the COMPLETE list that we have decided to print them in this column today. OREGON WILLKIE BACKERS TOLD TO VOTE FOR DEWEY

Portland, Ore., Nov. 4.—(U.P.) Wendell Willkie's 14-member executive committee tonight urged friends and supporters of the late republican leader to vote for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for the presidency. The committee conducted Willkie's campaign for the republican presidential nomination earlier this year but became inactive when Willkie withdrew from the race. The group declared it had joined with Willkie two years ago to "check the continuing power too long held in our national capital" and was vitally interested "in his businesslike approach to the solution of our woefully handled domestic economy, his broad concepts of international problems, and the establishment of a world peace organization." "Our sole interest was the promotion of a presidential nominee with a sound and progressive domestic and international program . . .," the statement said. "We have not attempted, we cannot and will not, attempt to speak for our late and beloved friend, Wendell Willkie . . . (but) we believe that Governor Dewey through his potential leadership in national and international affairs will fulfill those aims," the statement said. Ralph C. Coker, of Portland, republican national committeeman from Oregon and Willkie's pre-convention campaign manager, issued the statement.

It's practically all over but the shouting. Siraw votes indicate after next Tuesday the nation will not have to speculate on a fifth term, or "clear everything with Sidney". There will be no more speeches by Secy. Ickes that sound like something the cat dragged in.

Grandmaw, 85, the champion fly-swatter, had a mean trick played on her, and has a sore arm. One of her favorite grandsons drew a picture of a fly on her snow-white kitchen wall and will get no more raisin cookies.

A match shortage now confronts cigarette and cigar smokers, when they can get them. They may have to hire a Boy Scout to rub two sticks together to get a light. The pipe smokers have a slight edge. For the most part they are outdoor men who can pick up a live coal with their bare fingers from any kind of a fire and have their smoke.

Andrew Jackson Simpson is back from a trip to Salt Creek. He reports he was too late for deer and too early for defeated candidates on their quadrennial cruise up that stream.

Local woodshed props. were kept on the jump all week by the arrival of winter and customers who ignored warnings to buy fuel during the hot spell last August.

Citizens were out irked and early Wed. washing windows, marred and scarred by Hallows'en sprites and elf and juvenile ghosts.

Sen. G. Cordon, GOP senatorial candidate paused briefly Wed. late, en route north.

Geese honked over the city after midnight Fri. but no local autoist got up out of bed to honk back.

E. Kubl and Leon Offenbacher of the Applegate towed Thurs. They were in a hurry to get home, do the chores, and fill out questionnaires from Washington, D. C.

Royal Brown of the Eagle Pt. Browns towed Wed. and was worked on by a tonsorialist. He recalled pioneer days on Butte Crk. when he cut his own hair.

Plain and fancy swiggers were staggered last week by the rumor there would be a shortage of whiskey for the holiday cheer that caused no cheers. It was feared they would have to fall back on Cuban and Port Rican importations of Demon Rum, (and they do mean DEMON!)

Ducks are flying in Klamath co. Returning hunters report most of the ducks are still flying.

The social war between J. Tannehill Walker, 5, and the Older Girl down the street, with whom he has been feuding like the Italian front, was deadlocked all week.

The Grey Mask again won the head butting contest at the Armory Thurs. Angered customers now think nothing short of the roof caving in will unhorse and unveil him.

Local politicians agree the campaign now coming to a close is the worst one since the last one.

The G. Cleveland Corum twin boys invaded the biz. dist. in mid-week. They unleashed a couple of Comanche Indian whoops worthy of any Comanche.

The B. Tornado scrunched Bend Fri. eve. The Lava Bears were not rated a "powerful" squad, but were "potent."
