Secretary of the National Association of Retail Grocers, is convinced that "seeing is believing" will be the postwar selling point on foods. As a result, many commodities will be packed in "visual containers," instead of in cans, the contents of which are divulged only over the kitchen stove. But, she added, that is only one reason why the tin can will never return to its pre-war supremacy.

"Many foods will be frozen and sold in cardboard containers," Mrs. Kiefer said. "Others will be dehydrated. Concentrates developed through the scientific study of amino acids will become increasingly popular.

"With the widespread use of helicopters, field-fresh fruits and vegetables will be flown from farm to kitchen door in a matter of minutes. Peas, for example, will be shelled at the farm and rushed by air to homes in the nearest communities."

All Under One Roof
Improvements also will be made in the corner store, for the housewife who prefers to "shop around" for groceries, according to Mrs. Kiefer.

She predicted the store of tomorrow will be one in which the consumer can obtain his entire needs under one roof. Installation of separate departments for frozen foods, delicatessens, refrigerated lockers, lunch counters, bakery and catering departments also is in prospect, she said.

Not only will commodities be more attractively arranged, but various self-help devices, such as rotating counters, may be introduced.

At these counters, housewives will study attractive arrangements of commodities with the food speaking for itself in "visual containers," instead of hiding behind fancy labels, she said.

SCHOOL RUSH DAYS OVER
Melrose, Mass.—(U.P.)—For the first time in 37 years Mrs. Herbert S. Tourtellot of Melrose hasn't any children to bundle off to school this fall. The youngest of her nine children was graduated from Melrose high school recently. Her brood has attended public schools and colleges for a total of 132 academic years.

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have poor digestion?  YES  NO
Do you feel headachy after eating?  YES  NO
Do you get sour or upset easily?  YES  NO
Do you feel tired—listless?  YES  NO

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? Do you feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly?

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable. Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And you're on the road to feeling better. Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 10¢ and 25¢.
