

ALLIES CONTROL CHINA SEA AREA, ADMIRAL STATES

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Nov. 11—(U.P.)—The entire China sea has been brought under allied air cover by American air patrol wings operating from newly-won bases on Leyte island in the central Philippines, Rear Adm. George D. Murray, commander of the air force for the Pacific fleet, disclosed today.

U. S. navy patrol planes flying from Leyte have extended American air might across the entire Pacific, Murray reported on his return from conferences in the western Pacific with area leaders.

The famed fast carrier task force which has been ranging the western ocean area within a few months will be twice as strong as it was six months ago, despite some damage suffered in battling the Japanese in recent actions, the admiral said.
