SERGEANT LEWIS WRITES OF TRIP TAKEN TO ROME

Howard Lewis, Jacksonville, recently received a letter from his brother, M/Sgt. Carrol N. Lewis, telling of his experiences during a visit to Rome.

In part, the letter said "First thing we did when we got to Rome was to look for a room. We were fortunate in getting a room with a middle class family. Our biggest trouble was beating off the kids that were running around trying to get GI's to take a room of which they knew. Evidently they get a commission on any business they bring a hotel."

After getting a room, the letter said, they went to an AF restaurant, one of several army messes maintained in Rome for men on leave. After chow Lewis said they went to see the Coliseum, a structure which one must see to really appreciate it.

He stated the family with whom they stayed made coffee for them and did everything possible to make them comfortable.

Next morning, he said, they took the Red Cross tour of Rome, visiting the Pantheon, Catacombs, St. Peters, Old Appian Way, Arch of Constintine and several other less important places.

Sgt. Lewis said Rome appears to be a nice city and is not bombed out like most places he has seen in Italy.

As usual in these towns and cities, he said, shoeshine boys, beggars and souvenir salesmen with their "junk" advertised at 20 times its value are thick and present a big nuisance.
