GROCETERIAS WIN COMMENDATION ON FRUIT CAKE IDEA

Operators of the Groceteria Super Food Markets in Medford received considerable comment on their merchandising ideas in the December issue of Vitality News. The magazine, published by Products Control Department of General Mills, Inc., stated that in order to "make" the editorial columns of the publication a baker's merchandising and advertisement ideas must be of interest to other bakers. As a consequence, in many quarters publicity of a baker's achievement in this publication is regarded as national recognition.

The story, which appeared under a two column picture, follows:

Attracted by a series of four newspaper ads and four short radio announcements, Medford, Ore., citizens rushed to Gates & Lydiard for an item made to order for servicemen's overseas packages. The product causing the rush was a 1¾ lb. fruit cake baked and sealed in a size 2½ can. And at the end of dead-line date for overseas mailings, this retail shop had disposed of 2,000 packages at $1.49 each and by year's end the score on fruit cake is expected to reach 5,000 lbs.

Pres. W. A. Gates, and County Home Demonstration Agent Marian J. Farrell, worked out the campaign with cooperation from the County Home Demonstration Agent who had the sealing equipment. As newspaper ads explained it, "We furnish the can free—the county agent at the court house will seal it."

Incidentally, Gates & Lydiard advertisements on baked goods are written to arouse appetites to the drooling point. For instance — "Butterhorns—topped with quick frozen fresh pineapple," "Sun Glow orange cake —light and velvety—with the refreshing tang of Sunkist oranges." And over a listing of sweet goods, ads explain: "Expert dietitians say a good breakfast is essential to health—here are some fine energy-building, easy-to-serve breakfast specials." No wonder, is it, that Gates & Lydiard baked goods are tops with Medford shoppers?

JOBS IN ALASKA CLAIMED SCARCE

Seattle, Dec. 8—(U.P.)—A. A. Hedges, Alaska manpower director, today warned job-seekers away from the territory, reporting that from 50 to 300 have arrived weekly since travel control was relaxed and can find neither jobs nor living quarters.

In a report to A. F. Hardy, Washington state manpower director, Hedges said that conditions in Alaska are such that privation and even destitution await persons going north now without authorization.

"They are coming to all major towns in the territory and especially Anchorage, where living quarters are particularly hard to find," Hedges said.
