

American Voices Sound Like Tin Whistles, British Claim

By Joan Younger
 United Press Correspondent
 New York, Dec. 28 (U.P.)—The British member of parliament who said American voices sound like tin whistles had better watch out. Theodorora Lynch, movie singer, warned today, because Hollywood is going to let off a blast in his ear.

"Why, an American woman's voice sounds like a well-played harp compared to that, Miss Lynch said in a train-side interview. "We're going to tell the Limey off—and in our best tin whistle American, too."

The controversy over the American voice—as heard via the talking pictures—and a British voice flared up in parliament recently when Maj. Henry A. Proctor, asserted that "the English voice sounds like a flute, and the American voice like a tin whistle."

"If he had said 'fluke' he would have come closer to the truth," Miss Lynch said. She added that, headed by Irish Charles Bickford, a group of Hollywoodites were "working up an answer." In the group, she said, were Ellen Drew, a vaguely related member of the famous British stage family; Jane Russell, whose voice has as yet gone unheard although her sweaters are pin-up famous, and Lauren Bacall, described frequently as the girl with the foghorn voice.

Miss Lynch said that further attributes of the American voice included a "minor detail—you can understand it." When she was in England, she said, she practically had to hire an interpreter.

"They talk like they've just bitten into a peanut butter sandwich," she said. "Americans may speak a little noisily at times—but you can at least get what they're saying."

Bickford, Miss Lynch said, was "good and sore" and felt the whole thing was "nothing but a commercial proposition."

"The British want to keep Hollywood pictures out of England," she said. "They want to build their own pictures up. Well, actions speak louder than words—Hollywood has thousands of fans in England, and they aren't complaining."

JACKSON COUNTY FARM NOTES

Compiled by County Office O. S. C. Extension Service

Meeting of Sudan Grass Growers
 A meeting of all growers who have sudan grass seed for sale will be held in the county agent's office, Friday, Dec. 29, at 8 p. m. There are a few details to be worked out in regard to the storage of the local crop of sudan grass seed. This meeting is being called for the information of those interested and it is important that holders of sudan grass seed attend.

AAA Compliance Records Needed
 The current AAA year ends December 31, and it is important that all participants in this program who have not already completed their compliance reports appear at the AAA office, third floor courthouse, to complete their reports for 1944. The sooner this is done the sooner checks will be received.

More Beef Slaughter Is Requested
 Both nationally and for Oregon a larger slaughter of beef cattle is asked for 1945. Nationally an increased slaughter to a total of 35 million is requested. This would bring a reduction of about three million head in total cattle numbers compared with an estimated reduction of two million head this year. For Oregon an increased slaughter is also requested, which it is hoped will reduce the total number of cattle and calves on farms in this state to slightly over one million head on January 1, 1946, or about 91 per cent of the numbers on January 1, 1944.

War Demand Heavy On Dairy Products
 Military requirements point up the need for meeting the 1945 milk production goals, while the requirements for dry whole milk and dry ice cream mix still increasing and requirements for Cheddar cheese and evaporated milk expected to be as large in 1945 as in 1944. Supplies of gasoline and other petroleum products for civilians have reached the most acute stage since outbreak of war, according to the petroleum administrator for w. r. Gasoline drouths have already appeared in the east, and prospects for immediate relief are not too bright. Shortages are the result of bigger military requirements, which have increased to a point where overland transportation facilities are now carrying over three million barrels a day—the highest point in history.

R. G. Fowler,
 County Agent.

SPEEDER TELLS TRUTH
 Harrisburg—(U.P.)—State policeman J. E. Temple has found that, in rare cases, a speeding motorist really is going to a fire. Temple caught James Grandon of Mechanicsburg after a three-mile chase—to be told that the motorist was on his way home to put out a fire. Grandon got police escort and a little help in extinguishing the blaze.

Wall Street
 New York, Dec. 28 (U.P.)—Stocks rallied briskly today, recovering virtually all of the loss of the previous session, but trading was slack at a much slower pace.

All sections of the lower joined the forward movement. Bullishness was generated by a number of favorable business developments, including plants of Westinghouse Electric for a 4-for-1 stock split-up and of United Merchants & Manufacturers for a 2-for-1 split-up.

Steels responded well to a Washington report that the office of price administration is studying possible means of increasing prices for steel to offset the increased "fringe" wages ordered recently by the war labor board.
