

A JOB WELL DONE!

● Upon the close of another year, we have just reason to review with pride the achievements of America after three long years of bitter warfare. The march of our armies against the enemy is writing a gallant page in history . . . the drive of our great navy on the seven seas is a record for which we are both proud and grateful.

● But behind these heroic fighting men has been an unending flow of mighty warships and smaller naval craft with hundreds of transports and carriers. Thousands of warplanes streak the skies in the four corners of the globe. Tanks, guns, trucks, jeeps, ammunition, supplies in unbelievable quantities have been sent forth to war.

● A quarter-century ago Von Hindenburg attributed Germany's defeat to American production. History is repeating itself once more. America's military successes are a tribute to our free enterprise as well as the gallantry of her fighting men.

● As the day of victory dawns, let us remember this. Let us guard this free enterprise that has made America great—and strong! Eternal vigilance will be the price of liberty, and free enterprise and liberty are one and inseparable!
