

LUZON CITIES LEFT IN CHARRED RUINS BY ATTACK FURY

With U. S. Invasion Forces on Luzon, Jan. 13—(U.P.)—Dagupan, a peacetime city of 35,000, lies in fire-blackened ruins today—desolate and deserted.

It will cost millions of dollars to rebuild this once-thriving commercial center and the other devastated cities and towns along Lingayen Gulf.

But hundreds of American lives doubtless have been saved—and that was the key to the Luzon assault.

After viewing at first hand the devastation wrought by our pre-invasion naval shelling and aerial bombing, particularly in the cities of Dagupan and San Fabian, the lack of enemy opposition to our initial landings is understood.

Even before the first troops hit the beaches, at least half of all suspected military objectives in these two major gulf cities had been pulverized by the combined fire of battleships, cruisers and destroyers and the big bombs of our carrier-based aircraft.

This tour produced convincing evidence that our landings on central Luzon came as a complete surprise to the befuddled Japanese who had expected an invasion since last December but believed we would land either to the north or south.

The Japs obviously were caught off balance, but stiffening enemy resistance now may be expected along a defense line 20 to 30 miles inland behind the strategic Agno river.

GI'S PET WHISTLES
Cave-In-Rock, Ill.—(U.P.)—Pvt. Ross Frayser, Jr., stationed in France, has written his parents that he found a most peculiar pet which had been abandoned by the Germans, a guinea pig that whistles when it is hungry.

Pup Gets Workout In Family Washer

St. Joseph, Mo.—(U.P.)—Vickie, seven-week-old pup of uncertain ancestry, lay down unobserved for a nap in a pile of clothes spread on the floor of her owner's home here.

Mrs. Margaret Shannon moments later deposited the clothes, with Vickie in a washing machine full of suds and turned on the power. Vickie's presence wasn't discovered until a quarter of an hour later when Mrs. Shannon began removing the clothes to wring them.

The pup was brought out unconscious, but breathing and the next day resumed her romping on the Shannon lawn, banned henceforth from the basement on washdays.
