PAUL BULKIN HAS BRUSH WITH TRAIN

Paul G. Bulklin of route 1 was approaching the railroad crossing at West Main street Monday morning in his automobile when his 3 1/2-year-old child shouted that the door on her side was open. Bulklin, having already stopped and shifted into second gear, quickly slammed it shut and went on into high gear when he saw the Rogue River train approaching, he told in a traffic report filed today. He stepped on the gas to move forward across the track to avoid what might have been a serious accident.

The train engine struck the rear left fender and body of his car he said, causing only minor damage according to his report of the mishap. Train and automobile were proceeding at a slow rate of speed the report stated.

Southern Pacific officials did not state the amount of damage if any to the train's engine.

Gl's Lose In Boat Race With Natives

Somewhere in the Southwest Pacific—(UP)—Crew men versus canoe men—this set-up on the Charles river recently convinced 12 husky infantrymen that chanting helps in a boat race.

Challenged by natives to a paddling contest, men of the 31st Division, among whom were former U. S. varsity strong arms, climbed into their shell with amused smiles. They did not know the part chanting plays in South Seas races. "The Gl's were both distracted and "out-riggered" as the canoe men skimmed past timing brilliant down strokes to a rhythmic composition. The chant was infinitely superior to the cries of the American coxswain, the soldiers observed.
