GOLD HILL MAN WRITES PARENTS FROM JAP CAMP

First direct word from their son, Jack M. Hancock, 26, civilian prisoner of the Japanese since the latter part of December 1941, when Wake Island fell to the enemy, was received yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Melvin C. Hancock of Gold Hill. The couple received a form card with a short typewritten message signed in their son's handwriting.

Mr. and Mrs. Hancock had been informed by the navy that their son was a prisoner, but no message had been received directly from him until yesterday. The card came from Fukuoka Prisoner of War Camp, Dai-I-Bunsho, Island of Honsyu. The Hancocks state that the most recent issues of Red Cross prisoner of war publications stated that but two messages were known to come out of this camp, and they believe this to be the third.

The message read "Dear Mother: I am fine. Hope you are the same. Where is Sis and the babies and how are they? Hope war will be over soon, so I can return home. Good luck. Will be home some day. Love, Jack M. Hancock.

Hancock had been on the island for about a year when war broke out and the island fell into the hands of the Japanese on Dec. 22 of 1941. Before coming a civilian employee of the navy he was employed by the Pacific Portland Cement company in Gold Hill.

His brother, Fred W. Hancock, is a seaman second class in the navy and his sister, Mrs. Betty H. Garrels, whose husband was killed in action with the Fifth Army in Italy, recently enlisted in the Women's Army corps. The sister referred to in the message is Mrs. Georgia Murray of Gold Hill whose husband, Sgt. Lou B. Murray, is serving in Italy with the 91st Infantry Division.

FIFTY-FIFTY, PAL—Soft drinks at the fighting front are rarely seen on western theatre, but these GI buddies were lucky enough to dig up a bottle of pop. Here Pfc. Charles Shopter, (left) helps himself to a glass before he treats Sergeant Edward Brady, in Uberkinger, in Germany
