COLITIS
Irritation and inflammation of the colon are altogether too common. In some its wall is super-sensitive and so is more susceptible to irritation. In colitis there is also an abnormally increased secretion of mucus. In the colon, mucus is highly important as a protective covering of the underlying tissues. In the healthy colon this allows the bowel contents to move along easily by muscular contraction. The laxative habit interferes with the normal muscular action and floods the colon with water. Or it may be that pockets develop as a result of sagging or spastic colon. This causes irritation, resulting in violent muscular contractions. A film of sticky mucus remains in the inner surface of the colon. This entraps particles of the colon. With the resulting enervation the mucus and the entrapped colon particles harden, adhere, and become difficult to remove. This provides pressure and an excellent site for the development of bacteria. Putrefaction results with the production of poisons. These poisons further irritate the colon, and inevitably enter the blood stream through the lifeless section of the bowel wall.

CATTLE CEILINGS EFFECTIVE TODAY TO END SQUEEZE

Washington, Jan. 29—(UP)—Ceiling prices on live cattle, ranging from $17.25 to $18.80 a hundredweight, went into effect today as part of the government's drive to eliminate black markets and end the price squeeze on wholesale and retail dealers. The office of price administration said it had established an "over-riding ceiling" at 10 market centers and in 24 market areas which will be the legal limit for the sale of all grades of cattle and calves. Exempted are animals sold for breeding or commercial purposes and those sold by members of 4-H clubs or other recognized farm youth organizations. Officials said the over-riding price would assure a profit to wholesalers and retailers, many of whom have been forced to buy at prices higher than their own sale price under previously established wholesale and retail ceilings. The on-the-hoof prices will be cut by 50 cents all along the line July 2.

In addition to formally establishing the ceilings, which were ordered several weeks ago by economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson, the OPA ordered establishment of a "drove compliance" system under which slaughterers will be limited in the total amount they may pay in buying cattle during a monthly accounting period.

FOXHOLE "RESEARCH"

Garrett, Ind.—(UP)—Just ask S/Sgt. Judson Witherspoon, a marine veteran of the South Pacific, how many strands of silk it takes to weave a Hawaiian grass skirt. He'll tell you—many more than 8,000, 'cause that's when he got tired of counting. While spending a period of solitude in a foxhole, Witherspoon made a grass skirt out of strands of silk taken from a parachute.

TROLLEY LOTHARIO PLEADS INNOCENT; SHEDS FEW TEARS

By Dan McGuire
United Press Staff Correspondent
San Francisco, Jan. 29—(UP)—In an atmosphere of good will and congenial conversation, little Francis Van Wie, 58-year-old champion of multiple marriage, pleaded innocent today to two charges of bigamy filed by two of his estimated ten or possibly 12 wives. Emotionally overwhelmed by the combined efforts of nearly everyone in the jammed municipal courtroom to make him cheerful, Van Wie shed a few furtive tears in his brief preliminary hearing before Judge Leo Cunningham.

"I understand he was kind and thoughtful to the women he married," said Judge Cunningham, addressing Evelyn, one of the complaining Van Wie wives. Kindness Told "He certainly was kind to me, beamed Evelyn.
"And me, too, Judge," chimed in Mary, Evelyn's co-complainant.
The bald-headed Lothario, listening to this effusion of compliments from the very people who called him a bigamist, drew out a handkerchief and wiped his misty eyes and kept chewing on a wad of gum.

Not only the Mesdames Van Wie were kindly. Judge Cunningham said nice things about the prisoner.
"Although he may have been generous in his accumulation of wives," said Judge Cunningham, "He never intended to harm anyone."
The judge scheduled Van Wie's arraignment for Feb. 3 and set bail at $500 each on the complainants.
