CLEAN AND MEND WORN HANDBAGS; AGENT TELLS HOW

By Marian Farrell
Home Demonstration Agent

Many items ranging from clear nail polish to sandpaper and shoe cream can be used these days to keep good but worn handbags presentable. New leather bags are scarce and all kinds are expensive compared with prewar prices. The following suggestions for cleaning and mending these are offered by Lucy Lane, extension specialist in clothing and textiles at O.S.C.

Clean fabric bags with dry-cleaning fluid, but do not use this fluid on leather because it removes natural oils and may make leather crack. Shiny spots on suede can often be removed by rubbing with fine sandpaper Matching shoe dye or India ink will help retouch scratched and worn corners on leather. To hide water spots and other stains on leather, use a colored shoe cream, or a wax polish.

Shine Trimmings

Use silver polish to shine metal trimmings or to remove gold plating that has started to wear. A protective coating of clear, colorless nail polish will keep metal finish bright, but because it rubs off, it must be renewed occasionally.

If a leather or fabric purse is stitched outside, worn places at outside seams can be neatly repaired. Rip the seam with a razor blade; fold worn places in, taking a deeper seam, and restitch. Stitching on purses usually must be done by hand. Backstitching and buttonhole twist heavy-duty, or linen thread makes a firm seam. Waxing the thread makes it pull through more easily. It is best not to attempt outside repairs on a purse seamed inside and clamped into a frame.

If a zipper stop has broken at the bottom and the slide has pulled off, hold the teeth together and slip the slide on again at the bottom. A slide that pulls off at the top can only be put on again at the bottom. To do this, remove the bottom stop, hold the teeth together, and coax slide on. Replace stop by stitching firmly across the end by hand.

A leather bag that has become limp may need nothing more than new cardboard stiffening between the lining and leather.

Olive Barber's Observations

Mail bag: I'r heard so much about the vast gulf lying between the G I's and officers, I just up and asked a number on both sides to give me the low down; here is what a captain in the air force in Europe wrote me regarding this. He says, "Your question about the social difference being shown between officers and men under them would indicate that some are badly informed I don't know too much about ground personnel but am up on the relationship in the air corps.

"I've gone into crowded English restaurants and seen GI's at a four-place table and have sat down with them and there was no thought either in their minds or mine, that a difference existed. I've been one of several officers at a table and had a GI sit down with us.

"Maybe the fact that in the air we are so inter-dependent makes us just one big happy family. Rank is never considered, though of course in the air, the pilot's word is law. When we go on pass as a crew, we go together; all ten of us; four officers and six enlisted men; and have one big time.

"For myself, I know if I hadn't got quite a few lucky breaks I would still be a buck private. I've dozens of friends in the army, from pfc's to sgts. who are so much superior to myself in intelligence and education that they make me feel quite illiterate."

And then from a farm woman turned war worker comes this cry of heart agony. "Were I at home on the farm now, I'd be in the barn a lot of the time looking over spray equipment and fixing boxes for the fall harvest. The dog would be with me, smelling out mice. I'd pridefully inspect the pruning job I'd done in the fall. I took such pride in our orchard. Once I cut over two feet of rot out of a cherry tree and every one told me the tree would die. But it didn't!

"Before we got the ranch, the walnut trees hadn't borne any nuts and had shed their leaves in August My attention changed all that and I'm told that this fall they yielded quite heavily. Yet I'm not there to see for I'm a war worker My husband is in the service and I think I will enlist too. I feel so bewildered and alone."

Letters from service men's wives have greatly increased. Many times I get the feeling they've not written to me at all. Rather are those letters an outpouring of the bewilderment and lonliness they must refrain from telling their absent loved ones. Especially do I know this is so of the girl who writes quite frequently but never signs her name.

WEATHER

Northern California—Cloudy with occasional light rains today, tonight and Tuesday, but with snow in higher mountains. Mild temperature.

The first completely roller bearing equipped steam locomotive was built in 1929 and has more than 850,000 miles to its credit. Nearly all of the original anti-friction bearings are still carrying the engine.
