THE BLOOD CALCIUM

A reader informs me that when he asked his dentist about calcium deficiency as a factor of softness, crumbling and rapid decay of his teeth, the dentist did not scout the idea but said it was a simple matter to determine precisely — the dentist sent the patient to a laboratory and measured the blood calcium. The blood calcium level was within the normal limits—between 9 and 11.5 mg. per 100 cc.—so the dentist concluded the notion of calcium deficiency could be dismissed.

All that is pretty darn scientific, but it doesn't mean that the patient's teeth get all the calcium they need. In rickets, which is essentially due to calcium deficiency, the blood calcium is within normal limits in most instances. In tetany, too, which is due to vitamin D deficiency and inadequate intake of calcium, the blood calcium level may be within normal limits.

The blood calcium level is maintained at a pretty constant normal in most circumstances, being found below normal only in certain critical emergencies. In this respect it is like the blood sugar. If we were to dismiss the idea of calcium deficiency in every instance where a blood test shows the calcium content within normal limits, a great deal of trouble which responds well to calcium and vitamin D feeding would go unrelieved.

Take for example the common manifestation of adult tetany—cramps in the legs and arms, particularly in the legs, usually coming in the night. It is seldom that the blood calcium level is found below normal in such sufferers, yet they experience uniform relief from the painful cramps over considerable periods when they increase their calcium and vitamin D intake.

Former Medford Pastor Has Adventure As Army Chaplain

Washington, D. C. — Chaplain James M. Hamilton has been described to the General Commission on Army and Navy Chaplains, Washington, D. C., a dramatic experience while advancing as the Regimental Chaplain "somewhere in France." The Chaplain went in search of a wounded German only to return with his jeep laden, not only with the object of his search, but also with three German prisoners.

Chaplain Hamilton was born at Monrovia, Kansas, and later resided in Kansas City, Missouri, and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. He was graduated from Phillips University, Enid, Oklahoma and from the Divinity School of Yale University.

The Rev. Hamilton was pastor of the Medford First Christian church from 1937 until 1939. Mrs. Hamilton and the couple's three children are now in Abilene, Tex., with relatives.

He has held a number of pastorates and later was a student pastor at Cromwell, Connecticut. During 1930 he was the field representative for the Pension Fund of the Disciples of Christ.

D-Day Arrival
Chaplain Hamilton has been with his Infantry Division, now overseas, since it was activated at Camp Barclay, Texas, in the spring of 1942. He waded ashore on the Normandy Peninsula of France on D-Day plus two. Of his experience during which his jeep, intended for an ambulance, was transformed into a patrol wagon for bringing in German prisoners, he has sent the following description:

"During a battle in France the latter part of August, the German Army was suffering terrific destruction from the American Forces. The Germans were forced to retreat leaving many of their wounded on the battlefield. As an act of mercy, the Americans lifted their artillery fire to permit the American aid men to bring the enemy wounded into the Battalion Aid Station. "After three trips had been made to the battlefield, and a large number of wounded had been brought to the haven of safety, the Medical Officer in charge then said: 'I think that is all, men, we will now go back to the Aid Station.' At this point, Harold C. Ferrin of Atlantic City, N. J., who had been helping bring in the wounded, decided to make one quick circle in their jeep, deeper into the battlefield to see if by chance some wounded man had been overlooked. They had not gone far when they came upon a German soldier who was not wounded, but who surrendered to the Chaplain.

Deep Into Lines
"In a short time the prisoner was sitting on the front end of the jeep, holding high a Red Cross flag, directing the Chaplain to where the prisoner thought there was a wounded man. Deeper and deeper into enemy territory they drove. Finally, they went over a hill and down into a valley entirely cut off from the American lines. Both the Chaplain and his assistant became alarmed lest they themselves might be the prisoners rather than the one directing them.

"It was not long until another crisis arose. Two German soldiers stood up in their fox-holes by a hedgerow in front of the moving jeep. The Chaplain asked his driver to stop, and motioned for the soldiers to come to him. At the same time the prisoner on the jeep called for them to come. After a moment of hesitation the soldiers climbed out of their fox-holes and with uplifted hands, approached the Chaplain in surrender. Upon reaching the jeep, the two new prisoners were directed by the Chaplain to climb into the back seat. Then came an outburst of emotion. The prisoners literally danced for joy, saying over and over again, 'Good American comrades!'

Hugged by Nazis
"When they got into the jeep, they observed the cross on the Chaplain's shirt collar. It was then they said: 'The Chaplain!' and in their joy embraced him. Then reaching inside their shirts they produced silver crosses suspended by chains around their necks to show that they too were Christians.

"As yet, the objective of the Chaplain's mission had not been reached. With three prisoners now on the jeep he said: 'Let's move on now and get the wounded.' A short distance down the hedgerow, and on the other side, the wounded man was found. He was a terrible sight to behold. Both legs had compound fractures. How long he had been in his plight the Chaplain did not know.

"Since there was no litter on the jeep, one had to be improvised. A blanket was laid on the ground beside the wounded man, on which he was carefully placed. With the Chaplain and his assistant on one side, and the three prisoners on the other, he was then conveyed to the front end of the jeep.

Slow Return
"In order to give the wounded the most comfortable ride possible, the Chaplain and one of the prisoners sat on the front end of the jeep. The Chaplain held the wounded man's head and shoulders and the prisoner steadied his broken legs. Because of the rough ground, the journey back to the Aid Station was, of necessity, slow. In addition to rough ground, there were other dangers. A few enemy shells fell nearby as the party neared the American front lines. Upon arrival at the Aid Station, the wounded man was placed in an ambulance and rushed to a hospital. The three prisoners were then turned over to an armed guard and taken to a collecting point for prisoners of war."

Chaplain Hamilton summed up the accomplishment of the mission as follows: "That last swing which Ferrin and I made, carrying a little deeper into the field of battle, resulted in four good deeds in one. The life of a helpless enemy was saved, and three of Hitler's youth will fire no more at our American lads over here."

Both Republicans and southern Democrats indicated they would accept a compromise on the George bill, thus clearing the way for Senate confirmation of former Vice-President Henry A. Wallace as secretary of commerce.

The bill as passed by the Senate would strip the commerce department of authority over the Reconstruction Finance Corp. The administration accepted the bill in the belief that it would assure confirmation of Wallace when the Senate takes up the nomination on March 1. The House compromise proposal would also ban Wallace from being a member of the board of the Export-Import Bank.

Reese Creek
Reese Creek, Feb. 12—(Special) — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Humphrey, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Vestal, and Mr. and Mrs. Truman Collins attended the Senior high school play at Eagle Point, Jan. 31.

Mrs. Iva Wilson left Feb. 5. She is visiting in California for a few days.

Mrs. Frank Wilkins returned home Jan. 1, after being confined in a local hospital after an operation. She is doing nicely.

The 4-H club met at Robert Humphrey's home Friday evening, Feb. 2. The members attending were: Thora and Lorena Millard, Joan and Joyce Conner, Neil Sullivan, Mickey Burnett, Ralph Humphrey and their leader, Mr. William Walsh. Songs were sung and refreshments were served.

Corrine Williams spent Wednesday night, Jan. 31, with Mr. and Mrs. Van Williams.

Mrs. Eleanor Thiman left for Pasadena, Calif., to visit her children there.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dodge of

Washington, Feb. 10 — (U.P.) Anti-Wallace forces in the House appeared to be retreating Saturday.

WHY BE FAT?

Get slimmer without exercise

You may lose pounds and have a more slender, graceful figure. No dieting. No laxatives. No drugs. With the AYDS plan you don't cut out any meals, starches, potatoes, meats or butter, you simply eat them down. It's easier when you enjoy delicious (vitamin fortified) AYDS before meals. Absolutely harmless.

In clinical tests conducted by medical doctors, more than 100 per cent lost 14 to 15 lbs. average in a few weeks with AYDS Vitamin Candy Eating Plan.

Try a 30-day supply of AYDS, only $1.25. Money back on the very first box if you don't get results. Please.
