

RUSSIA TO JOIN WAR WITH JAPS, GUESSERS CLAIM

By Sendor S. Klein
United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington, Feb. 15—(U.P.)—The so-called educated guessers here are betting today that Russia is going to join the fight against Japan—sooner or later.

There are some observers—and they are pretty much in the minority—who think that the Russians aren't going to lift a finger after the Germans are beaten.

Russia Victory Key
But all agree that Russia is the key to an early victory over Japan. Military experts believe the Pacific war can be shortened as much as a year if the Russians throw their vast military might against Japan's powerful land army in China.

Top American military authorities have said repeatedly that it will be necessary to defeat Japan's well-equipped, battle-toughened army on the Asiatic mainland in order to bring about final conquest of that country. Some have said this would hold true even if the home islands of Japan were conquered first.

In Favorable Position
Once the war in Europe is over, Russia would be in a more favorable position than the United States to cope with Japan's army in China. Without Russia's help, American ground forces would have to be transported thousands of miles from Europe to the United States—a tremendous shipping and supply task that would consume much valuable time.

Russia, on the other hand, already has a huge army in Siberia. Additional troops could be transferred readily by rail from Europe.

Army in Siberia
Even now, while Russia and Japan are at peace, the existence of a big Red army in Siberia has proven advantageous to the United States. The presence of that force has led the wary Japanese to keep the Kwangtung army, their most seasoned, toughest force, in Manchuria and Korea. This has kept an estimated 20 to 35 Japanese divisions of troops out of the war against the U. S.

Elsewhere in China, the Japanese are believed to have 18 to 20 other divisions.

Bad Time On Shore, Marine Returns To Pacific War Area

San Francisco, Feb. 15—(U.P.)—Merchant Marine Lieutenant Charles Howard today cut short his 15-day leave after only three days ashore and signed up on a ship headed for the battle zone, where he said there was "a semblance of peace."

It was pretty harrowing on shore, said Howard, who just completed six months sea duty in the Pacific.

He couldn't get a room in a war-jammed San Francisco. He couldn't get gas for the car he rented. He had to wait 15 minutes to make a phone call and stood for 10 minutes in several other queues.

The officer said he couldn't find a place to stand at downtown bars, the city was too noisy and he ran out of cigarettes.

Howard said he hoped delegates to the world peace conference here next April would find the city more "peaceful" than he did.

Bull Brings Top Figure At Sale

Madera, Calif., Feb. 15—(U.P.)—F. L. Robinson, of Kearney, Neb., announced today he had sold President Mischief 9th, a yearling bull, to Frank Vessels of Long Beach, for $18,750.

The transaction, which was the highest price ever paid for a bull in California, was made at the Pacific Coast Polled Hereford sale at Madera yesterday.

Seventy-five head of Polled Herefords, mostly from Kansas and Nebraska, were sold for a total of $65,880, or an average of $875 a head.

Simple Jet Engine Cuts Maintenance Eighty Per Cent

Schnectady, N. Y., Feb. 15—(U.P.)—Jet engines, now in volume production for the army air forces, cut ground crew maintenance 80 per cent General Electric engineers reported today.

General Electric, manufacturers of the jet engine for the army's propellerless bell P-59A plane, said the cut in maintenance time results from the engine's simple design and few moving parts.

The G-E jet has one-tenth the moving parts of a conventional airplane engine and can be installed in less than half a day. It has only two main bearings and one shaft.

S/Sgt. Earl Kohler, jet crew chief at Wright Field, describes the jet engine this way: "Air comes in the front end, goes through the compressor, mixes with kerosene in the combustion chamber, and is ignited. It blasts out through the flame pipe, and that's all there is to it."

Woman Kills Mate In Quarrel Over Gathering of Eggs

Winchester, Ind., Feb. 15—(U.P.)—For nearly 50 years Maggie and Millard Deeds lived happily in their little white farmhouse.

Next month they would have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, but today Mrs. Deeds, 75, was under $10,000 bond, accused of fatally beating her crippled husband, who was 83.

They quarreled Sunday night over gathering the eggs from the hen house. Sheriff Lester Putterbaugh said Mrs. Deeds picked up a stick from the kitchen woodbox and struck her husband on the head. Then she went out to gather the eggs.

Deeds died of a skull fracture yesterday.

Soldiers Poisoned By French Hootch

Paris, Feb. 15—(U.P.)—Nine American soldiers were fatally poisoned and several others were blinded at a bar in Nancy by drinks which contained adulterated alcohol, the French press agency reported today.

An investigation disclosed that the fatal ingredient in the drinks was automobile antifreeze fluid which bartender Guillaume Rohm said he obtained from a Yank soldier. The drinks were mixed with sugar flavoring and coloring.

SETTLEMENT NEARS ON UMW ENTRY INTO AFL

Miami, Fla., Feb. 15—(U.P.)—President William Green said today the question of re-entry of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers into the American Federation of Labor should be settled by tomorrow night.

"Progress has been made in promotion of an understanding," Green said, "but it has not yet reached final conclusions."

It was reported that the only major point not agreed on by Lewis and the AFL executive council was the Lewis demand that his organization be guaranteed a representative on the council.

HOTELS, TRAINS STILL CROWDED SURVEY SHOWS

By United Press
Hotel space and train reservations are still at a premium in a majority of the nation's larger cities, despite the office of defense transportation's ban on wartime conventions, but officials are hopeful for some weary traveler of late spring or early summer, a United Press survey revealed today.

Some hotel men said that the convention ban had no effect on the hotel situation at Miami and Miami Beach, Fla., because no conventions have been booked there for two years. However, fewer than 500 hotel rooms were available in both places and train reservations were being booked 30 days in advance.

At Los Angeles, one hotel manager summed up the effects of the ban by saying, "we were full then and we're still full."
