KEITH DENMAN IS PLANE MECHANIC IN NORTH AFRICA

ATC Air Base, Casablanca — Master Sergeant Keith J. Denman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Denman, 1218 West Main street, Medford, Oregon, is an airplane mechanic assigned to Cazes Air Base, Casablanca, in the North African Division of the Air Transport Command.

The North African Division, under the command of Brigadier General James S. Stowell, is the United States Army airline which in a recent month totaled over 41,000 flying hours, the equivalent of five years in the air.

In his 23 months overseas, the sergeant has been to Dakar, air terminus just below the equator, and the old walled seaport of Rabat. He is stationed within a five minute drive of Casablanca, city where modern architecture contrasts sharply with ancient Arabic culture. "I get into town pretty often," he reported, "to see the sights and let the sights see me."

He received his training as an airplane mechanic at Chanute Field, Illinois and in San Diego, Calif. A graduate of Medford high school, he was employed by the Sacramento Air Depot, California, before he enlisted in 1939. His wife, Mrs. Alta Denman, maintains their home at 1206 Valencia street, San Francisco.
