State Convention University Women Will Be By Mail

Following the pattern of the National Association of University Women and other national and state groups, the state convention of AAUW originally scheduled for Saturday was cancelled and instead a convention without travel will be held according to a release from state officers.

Miss Helen Parish, president of the Medford branch, states that at the next meeting of the branch the business which would have been transacted at the convention will be presented to members and 10 delegates recently named will be instructed in voting. Ballots will then be mailed to state headquarters by April 15 and results returned to branches by mail.

Similar procedure will be used by the national association in order to transact national business and to elect national officers. Every branch will meet May 29 to cast votes, hold workshop sessions and to hear letters and transcriptions of messages.

Congress Cancels State Convention; Plan Substitute

In line with the recent order of the Office of Defense Transportation regarding holding of conventions, it has been announced that the Oregon Congress of Parents and Teachers has voted to hold a series of one-day conferences in various sections of the state instead of the annual state convention.

State officers will attend the meetings and relay information and transact business ordinarily handled at the state meeting.

Representatives of units in Douglas, Josephine and Klamath counties will meet in Ashland April 17 for the local district conference. All incoming officers are urged to attend and it is suggested that money set aside for convention expense be used to pay the small registration fee of as many members as may be able to attend from each unit.

NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY 100th Annual Statement to its Policyholders

THE COMPANY will be one hundred years old on April 12, 1945. Since beginning business in 1845, it has paid to policyholders and beneficiaries over $6,000,000,000. As it completes its first century, the Company has in force its greatest amount of life insurance.

Our centennial, while significant in the history of the Company, comes at an especially significant time in the history of the nation. The war, with the additional duties and responsibilities it imposes upon all of us, has been a primary influence affecting the Company as an institution and also the officers, agents and employees individually. More than 1,970 members of the New York Life organization are now serving in the armed forces. Twenty-two have already lost their lives in the service of their country.

Although there have been five wars during the 100 years since 1845, the past century has been a period of great development for the country. Through all those years, the New York Life has played its part in the nation's social and economic growth. As the Company emerges from its first century, it reaffirms its faith in the stability of our fundamental American institutions.

Foremost of these institutions is the family. With it goes the family's freedom to participate in the nation's progress towards a better civilization, and the right to protect the fruits of hard work and perseverance. In America and Canada, where we live, this freedom to participate, and the right to protect, is assured by our representative form of government. It has enabled us to attain our present high standards of living and family security. But while our form of government can assure this freedom of opportunity, it is the responsibility of the individual family to avail itself of that opportunity by constant effort and savings. Freedom of opportunity and individual effort must be inseparable if we wish to maintain security and insure progress. Under the circumstances, it is natural that life insurance as an institution should have had such a remarkable development and should have become so increasingly important during the past one hundred years.

Through life insurance, New York Life policyholders erect the fortifications of security for their families and for themselves. But not only do the funds of this Company improve and protect the financial position of the individual family; they are at the same time acting in the service of the country as a whole. Before life insurance funds go back from the Company to policyholders or beneficiaries in accordance with the terms of the policy contracts, those funds become available for employment in the economic life of the people in the form of investments or loans. In normal years they help finance the pursuits of peace. In war years they help in winning the war. Indeed, over 54 per cent of all the Company's assets are now invested in United States Government securities helping to finance the war.

The growth and development of the Company during the past half-century are illustrated by these interesting comparisons:

	1894	1919	1944
Payments to Policyholders and Beneficiaries.....	$15,665,003	$116,174,621	$182,029,816
Number of Policies Outstanding.....	277,600	1,456,194	3,292,584
Insurance in Force.....	$813,294,160	$3,127,920,086	$7,644,703,430
Assets.....	$162,011,770	$961,022,120	$3,570,738,940

Throughout the years, the Company has recognized that the confidence of its policyholders must be based on a strong foundation of security. Prior to 1899 the Company assumed that it would earn in excess of 4 per cent on highest grade investments and it had been using a 4 per cent interest factor for life insurance premium calculations. However, in 1899, in view of decreased investment yields, the Company adopted a 3 per cent rate for new policies. This change added to an important element of safety behind the Company's future contracts. During the past year, because of the still lower yields which now prevail, the Company has again strengthened its reserve basis by changing its interest rate assumption for new policies from 3 per cent to 2 1/2 per cent.

As we come to the end of our first century, we look back on a long life of service to the greatest of American institutions, the family. And as we enter our second century, we look forward to the opportunity in the years to come of even greater service to the family and the nation.

Wm. L. Harrison
President
