CAUSE OF SENILITY
We have said that the cell is the primary body unit and upon its wholesome existence and its normal power of reproducing itself depends the state of our bodily existence. To most of us the cell-life of the body seems far beyond our control and so far removed from any responsibility of ours. We must realize that as the cell develops so develops the body; if cellular life or its development is impaired, so is that extent is the body. We know that the body—the same is true with the cells—can be nourished only from what we give it, both in the way of food and thought. If proper nourishment for the cells is not maintained, the whole body suffers. As a result, the life of the cell is jeopardized by this toxic state as well as by the unfavorable environment which develops within the body.

active pallbearers from the Modern Woodmen of America will be Ray Stoneker, Delmar Smith, M. F. Young, Louis Bashaw, John Brenner and Truman Brenner.
