CITY'S STUDENTS TO COOPERATE IN CLOTHING DRIVE

E. H. Hedrick, superintendent of city schools, volunteered the services and cooperation of Medford schools in the United Nations clothing drive in a proclamation to students and teachers today. The drive, to be carried on by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, began April 1 and will continue through April 30.

The drive, headed by Reginald A. Staff, is for all serviceable, used clothing, especially infants' and children's apparel. School students will begin collection of the clothing immediately but will not bring it to the schools until April 9 and 10.

Citizens are urged to check old storage places for material for the drive and to bring it to the school next Monday or Tuesday or to contact students in their neighborhoods. The clothing will be shipped by the national committee next winter to areas where the shortage is critical.

An interim report, SHAEF said, indicated that the prisoners died because of insufficient ventilation in a new type of American box cars. Details were lacking.
