

Medford Tracksters To Meet Klamath Tomorrow

Medford high's track and field team will compete in the first dual meet of the season tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 1:30 when they meet Klamath Falls, last year's district champions. It is a practice meet to enable the coaches to get a look at their material before the annual invitational meet here April 14 between Klamath Falls, Grants Pass, Ashland and Medford.

There will be 14 events with each first place getting five votes and second place receiving three points. In event of a tie the votes will be split.

Medford Coach Al Simpson said the following boys will carry the colors for Medford: 100 and 220-yard dash—Bostwick, Cottingham, Bebb and Singer.

440-yard event—Carr and Hunter.
880-yard race—Werner, Ellis, Hunter, Phipps and Butler.
Mile race—Nutting, Hayes and Bullock.
Low hurdles—Holmes, Garety and Shangle.
High hurdles—Carter and Holmes.
High jump—Carter, Eatherton and Browne.
Pole vault—Huber, Pence and Harper.
Discus—Ross, Anderson and Eatherton.
Shot Put—Ross, Stafford and Robertson.
Javelin—Carter, Bostwick and Kennedy.
Broad jump—Shangle, Carter and Bostwick.
Relay team—Cottingham, first Holmes, second, Carter third and Bostwick, anchor.

HOODED MONSTER WHIPS BELCASTRO

The Gray Mask kept his undefeated record at Medford armory intact last night when he took two out of three falls from Pete Belcastro in the main event. Belcastro has nobody to blame but himself for his licking at the hands of the hooded monster. With falls standing one apiece, Belcastro attacked the Mask during the rest period. When the bell officially started the session Pete ran into a series of head butts and was forced to give up after three minutes.

The Mask took the first fall in 20 minutes and Belcastro evened it in six minutes with a shoulder press.

Georges Dusette and Ernie Pituso went to a fast draw with each taking a fall in the semi-windup.

Tex Hager was awarded the deciding fall on a foul over Billy McEuin in the opener.

BASEBALL MEN FACE INDUCTION

Washington, April 6—(U.P.)—Immediate induction into the armed forces today faced baseball players who hold deferments for essential jobs in industry and leave to play baseball.

However, players in war jobs not holding deferments may return to baseball and be subject only through regular channels to the draft, selective service officials said yesterday.

Officials pointed out that this was not a special rule governing baseball players since any deferred person leaving an essential job is subject to immediate reclassification to 1-A.

By Nelson Leads Atlanta Tourney

Atlanta, Ga., April 6—(U.P.)—Byron Nelson threatened today to make a run-away of the $10,000 Atlanta Iron Lung tournament, taking a five stroke lead after his opening day round of 64.

Nelson had seven birdies yesterday in amassing his five under par card and there wasn't a man in the field of more than 80 players who could even approach him.

His most persistent winter rival, Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., was tied for second with Harold (Jug) McSpaden another consistent shooter.

SEATTLE HOLDS 3 TO 2 LEAD IN HOCKEY SERIES

Seattle, April 6—(U.P.)—The Seattle ironmen today held a 3-2 edge in the northwest hockey playoff following last night's victory over the Portland Eagles, 6-2.

The two teams meet at Portland tonight. If a seventh game is necessary it will be played here Sunday.

GOLF DATE SET

Pomona, Calif., April 6—(U.P.)—Golfier Johnny Dawson announced today that the American Golf Association's sixth annual California 36-hole tournament will be held at the Pomona Valley Country club June 2 and 3.

Closing time for Sunday Too Late to Classified 5:30 Saturday afternoon—Please remember.

PORTLAND TRIMS SOLONS, 5 TO 1; SAN DIEGO WINS

By United Press

The Portland Beavers continued to hold the Pacific Coast league leadership today, one game ahead of the Los Angeles Angels and two in front of the Seattle Rainiers.

The Beavers trimmed the Sacramento Solons last night 5-1 while the Angels chalked up their second win over the Rainiers by a score of 4-2. In other games, the Oakland A's came through with a 9-8 victory over the Hollywood Stars and the San Diego Padres squeezed through a 3-2 win over the San Francisco Seals.

Three Solon errors helped the Beavers down the Sacs. Ted Helsner went the route for Portland, giving up seven scattered hits and blanking the Solons until the ninth.

NAVY BREAKS UP ALL STAR TEAMS

Washington, April 6—(U.P.)—The navy is breaking up its all-star athletic teams in this country in a dual move to bolster morale of personnel overseas and to end "adverse criticism" at home, it was learned today.

The order opens the way for many nationally known stars in navy uniform to be sent overseas, thereby giving servicemen away from home an opportunity to see high class athletic competition.

In an order to all naval commands in this country, the navy said it no longer favored "deliberate concentrations of professional or publicly-known amateur athletes within the continental United States for the purpose of exploiting their specialties in athletic team competition."

The baseball season in the valley is still in the embryo stage but already it begins to look like there will be no league this summer. Dom Provost, who generally has his fingers in the Ashland baseball pie, has notified Mac McKinney, secretary of the Medford Craters, that Ashland will probably not be able to field a team. Grants Pass has not answered McKinney's letter seeking information on a team from the Climate City.

If present plans are carried out, the chances are slim for an outstanding team from Medford. But Conlin is trying to work up a gang of older players while the Craters are also rounding out plans for a team with the stress being on youthful players.

We have asked both Conlin and McKinney why they did not group their efforts and put out the best possible team to represent Medford. Conlin said the Craters were leaning toward youth to make up its lineup while he wants to give the older fellows a chance. McKinney said he favored both organizations joining together to put out the best possible club. It is our feeling, as well as McKinney's, that there is not enough capable material in Medford to field two teams able to hold their own with southern Oregon competition while one fairly good team could be made up.

McKinney said he has received a letter from the naval station at Klamath Falls indicating they might field one or two teams and would be interested in entering a league. The letter said Norm Worthey, former junior high coach here and catcher for the Craters a few years back, might be named manager of one of the clubs.

Although no word has been received to date from the marine barracks at Klamath Falls, it is our guess they also would be interested in forming a team to enter a southern Oregon league.

Come what may, there will be some form of baseball in the valley this summer. The Cheney Lumber company at Central Point has a team already organized and vitally interested in forming a league. Conlin is planning a workout for his gang of "oldsters" at the high school diamond Sunday, weather permitting.

NAZI VILLAGERS LEARN ABOUT WAR THE BITTER WAY

Refusal of Enemy Troops to Surrender Brings Destruction of Homes of Town.

By Ann Stringer

United Press Correspondent (Scherfede, Germany, April 3 (Delayed)—Until last night this little village nestled in a pine forest didn't know what war meant. It knows now. It learned the hard way.

That young woman coming down the street knows about war now. She is pushing a baby buggy. In it is a little girl about 18 months old. She lies still in the buggy. One side of the pink blanket wrapped around the baby is wet with blood.

Child Attended

The weeping mother pushes the buggy to an American aid station. They dress the gaping wound in the child's leg. That's all they can do. They tell her the best thing is to take the baby home and call in a German doctor. Our doctors have their hands full with their own wounded.

They hate the idea of having to send the baby away, but what could they do?

Here's how the baby's mother and her fellow citizens of Scherfede learned about war.

Last night American infantry approached the village. They knew German troops, elite guards at that, were hiding there and waiting for them. So, as Sgt. Donald R. Weishaupt of Panama, Okla., relates it:

Troops warned

"We set up a loud speaker system. We told the citizens in both German and English that we had them surrounded. We told them they had no possible chance. We asked them to surrender and save their town."

"Some of the civilians did come out. But the troops stayed."

When the deadline came, our artillery turned loose on the village. Today many houses lie crumpled into the streets, some of them still smouldering. Oh one street four milk cows lie dead. Their stiff legs poke out straight in the air.

A little old woman is digging
